

AMERICAN SIGN LANGUAGE STUDIES (MINOR)

The minor in American Sign Language Studies at DePaul University provides students with a linguistic and cultural background, develops their creative and critical thinking skills, and helps to prepare them for a career in a multicultural world.

The ASL Studies minor consists of six courses in American Sign Language at the 100-level (ASL 101-106), plus two outside electives chosen from this list or in consultation with the ASL faculty advisor.
