

ENGLISH LITERATURE AND PUBLISHING (MA)

The Master of Arts in English Literature and Publishing program (formerly the Master of Arts in English) offers graduate courses in all periods of English and American literature as well as professional training in teaching, publishing, creative writing, and/or pre-PhD scholarship, if desired. The curriculum offers flexibility so that students may tailor their program to their professional needs and includes options for independent study, internships, and thesis research.

Elective courses in the MA in English Literature and Publishing may be expanded to include graduate certificate programs. With planning, combined MA + certificate programs may require no additional coursework to fulfill all requirements.

Students participating in a combined MA + certificate program should consult with their academic advisor to determine what coursework might count toward both programs. A separate application process for the certificate is required. Students who are interested in any of the following combination programs should contact the Graduate Student Services Office for additional information.

- Literature and Publishing + Teaching English in Two-Year Colleges Certificate
- Literature and Publishing + Digital Humanities Certificate
- Literature and Publishing + Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) Certificate
- Literature and Publishing + Women's and Gender Studies Certificate

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Demonstrate a working knowledge of the major movements, authors, and canons of literature in English.
- Engage with foundational schools and methods of literary criticism, and apply this knowledge to produce coherent and effectively supported interpretations of literary works.
- Complete effective research papers that survey and evaluate previous efforts in literary criticism; offer an original contribution to scholarship on the topic at hand; defend this argument with appropriate exposition and textual support; document primary and secondary sources accurately.
- Analyze the meanings and values inherent in the terms "literature" and "literary studies" in diverse and changing professional contexts.
- Apply knowledge, vocabulary, and tools of literary study in professional contexts and genres, such as classroom teaching, conference papers, creative and multimedia content production, editing, course plans and syllabi, and/or oral presentations.
