

STUDENT CONDUCT PROCESS COMPLIANCE

A student may not take any action to influence or coerce information that is provided in a Student Conduct Process.

A student may not take any action that disrupts or impairs the Student Conduct Process.

A student may not retaliate against another student on account of that student's participation in the Student Conduct Process.

A student may not knowingly provide false information or misrepresent information in a Student Conduct Process, which includes any investigation, hearing, or administration of cases of alleged violations of the Code of Student Responsibility.

A student may not publicly release confidential information regarding, or learned through, a Student Conduct Process.

A student who fails to complete sanctions imposed through the Student Conduct Process may be in violation of the Student Conduct Process Compliance and face additional sanctions.