

SCIENCE AND MATH TUTORING SERVICES

Currently enrolled DePaul students have access to free tutoring services offered by departments in the College of Science and Health. Tutoring is regularly available in the areas of chemistry, mathematical sciences, nursing, physics, and psychology (statistics only). All tutors are either graduate students or upper-level undergraduate students in their respective fields of study.

A schedule of tutoring services (<https://csh.depaul.edu/student-resources/Pages/tutoring-services.aspx>) is available online and is subject to change every term – check the schedule regularly for updates. No appointments are necessary to receive tutoring.