

DEPAUL UNIVERSITY

Course Catalog

College of Communication Undergraduate Studies

Winter/Spring 2011-2012

Table of Contents

Table of Contents	2
General Information	4
Admission	4
Catalog Version	4
College of Communication	4
Faculty	6
Faculty	6
Bachelor of Arts Degree Requirements	9
Competence in Modern Language	9
Liberal Studies Requirements	9
Major Requirements	10
Unrestricted Electives	10
Minors	11
Cinema Studies Minor	11
Communication and Media Minor	11
Communication Studies Minor	11
Documentary Studies Minor	12
Intercultural Communication Minor	13
Journalism Minor	13
Media and Cinema Studies Minor	13
Performance Studies Minor	14
Radio, TV and New Media Minor	15
Relational, Group and Organizational Communication	16
Latino Media and Communication	17
Rhetoric Minor	20
Special Programs	22
Special Programs	22
Degree Programs	24
Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies	24
Liberal Studies Requirements	24
Core Requirements	25
Bachelor of Arts in Journalism	35
Liberal Studies Requirements	35
Core Requirements	36
Bachelor of Arts in Public Relations and Advertising	41
Liberal Studies Requirements	42
Core Requirements	42
Bachelor of Arts in Media and Cinema Studies	49
Liberal Studies Requirements	49
Core Requirements	50
Bachelor of Arts in Communication and Media	58
Liberal Studies Requirements	58
Core Requirements	59
Bachelor of Arts Degree in Professional Communication for Adults	60
Core Requirements	60
Bachelor of Arts in Intercultural Communication	61

Liberal Studies Requirements	61
Core Requirements	62
Bachelor of Arts in Relational Communication	68
Liberal Studies Requirements	68
Core Requirements	69
Bachelor of Arts in Organizational Communication	73
Liberal Studies Requirements	73
Core Requirements	74
Concentrations	80
Latino Media and Communication	80
Latino Media and Communication	80

General Information

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ General Information

Admission

Candidates interested in admission to the College of Communication should direct all inquiries to the Office of Admission, DePaul University, 1 E. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois, 60604, admission@depaul.edu, or (312) 362-8300.

For general information on the types of admission, see University Information, Admission.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ General Information ▢ Catalog Version

Catalog Version

UNDERGRADUATE UPDATE: OCTOBER 15, 2011

Please use the menu items to the left for current catalog navigation. Access archived catalogs by choosing the link to the right.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ General Information ▢ College of Communication

College of Communication

Catalog Version

Communication is the art and science of creating and sharing meaning. In the College of Communication, you'll develop a deeper understanding of the complex and challenging communication practices and processes that characterize our rapidly changing world; you'll master the techniques for crafting and delivering messages across a variety of social contexts and platforms: face to face, print, audio, video, Web and other social media. You'll learn from exceptional teachers - from professors who have many years of experience in some of the biggest media markets in the nation, and from scholars publishing in some of the top national and international journals. You'll gain hands-on experience in our state-of-the-art facilities, through our award-winning radio station and newspaper, and through a wide range of internships and community projects.

The recent creation of a College of Communication at DePaul has set the stage for enhanced quality, substantially enriched curricular and programmatic offerings, joint programming with other schools and colleges within the university, expanded opportunities for our students to engage in workplace experiential learning; increased regional and national visibility; and significant additional growth in undergraduate programs, graduate programs, and overall enrollments.

In order to better accommodate the increasing complexity of the undergraduate curriculum, student demand for more degree options in specialized areas, the need to better blend theory and practice, and the changing contours of communication fields with the advent of new media technologies and globalization, the College of Communication faculty recently approved five new BA degree programs (available Fall 2008).

They are:

BA in Communication Studies

The Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies merges what used to be two distinct areas of study within the Department of Communication: Relational, Group and Organizational Communication, and Culture and Communication. The BA in Communication Studies is designed to respond flexibly to students desire to complete coursework examining the dynamics of human communication in interpersonal, group and workplace contexts, or intercultural and multicultural communication in various social, political, and performative settings. The merger between these two areas is all the more natural when one considers that both offer advanced coursework that supports a five-year program leading up to the MA in Organizational and Multicultural Communication.

BA in Journalism

The BA in Journalism prepares students to work as journalism professionals and places the social responsibility of the press and social justice at the center of the curriculum. This distinguishes the Journalism program both regionally and nationally. Part of the undergraduate journalism curriculum requires students to gather news and report on Chicago residents who might not always have a voice in our mainstream media. This type of community based work is evident in courses such as Community Journalism, Investigative Reporting and Online Journalism. The existing five year program in Journalism culminates in an MA in Journalism concentrating on social justice, social responsibility and ethics of the media. The resources (e.g., television studio and lab resources) available at the Communication and Media Center at the Loop campus now afford journalism students the opportunity to develop the technological expertise necessary to produce professional journalism and ensure that all students enter new multimedia and interactive environments prepared to work effectively.

BA in Media and Cinema Studies

The BA in Media and Cinema Studies strategically combines the faculty expertise, curricula and facilities of media areas in Communication, CTI (e.g., Digital Cinema) and other university units to provide students with the critical frameworks, creative opportunities and technological expertise to become socially responsible leaders in the growing and converging areas of multimedia. The major combines a rich course selection in several areas of study: film; radio, television, and new media. Coursework combines theory and critical analysis with production courses taught at both the Lincoln Park (e.g., radio) and Loop campuses (e.g., television/video or cinema). The BA in Media and Cinema Studies changes its name from Radio, TV, Film to better reflect its continued coverage of traditional media, and its growing curricular associations with the Digital Cinema Program. The Media and Cinema Studies major also houses the five-year BA/MA program leading up to the Master of Arts degree in Media, Culture and Society.

BA in Public Relations and Advertising

The BA in Public Relations and Advertising offers students a single flexible concentration, allowing for specialization in either public relations or advertising, or the pursuit of coursework in both. Classes in this program emphasize theory and practice, writing in both public relations and advertising, law and ethics, production, program development and implementation, critical perspectives, and special topics like contemporary trends, health public relations, and global messages.

BA in Communication and Media

The BA in Communication and Media offers students the opportunity to pursue an interdisciplinary, non-specialized program in communication and media. This generalist degree will provide flexibility for transfer students and others who have not determined their precise career trajectory, while affording them the fundamental communication and critical thinking skills needed to enter jobs across the public, private and non-profit sectors, or to continue their education in academic or professional post-graduate programs. This major will also serve the needs of those students who would like to complete a communication degree, by taking mostly evening courses.

Faculty

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Faculty

Faculty

JACQUELINE TAYLOR, Ph.D.,
Professor and Dean,
University of Texas, Austin

LUISELA ALVARAY, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of California, Los Angeles

DANIEL AZZARO, MBA.,
Instructor
Fordham University

CRISTINA BENITEZ, M.A.,
Visiting Instructor
Furman University

PAUL BOOTH, Ph.D,
Assistant Professor,
Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

DAVID BRENDERS, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
Purdue University

CAROLYN BRONSTEIN, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
University of Wisconsin, Madison

RICK BROWN,
Instructor,
University of Missouri

LEAH BRYANT, Ph.D,
Associate Professor,
University of Nebraska

SHU-CHUAN (KELLY) CHU, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
University of Texas at Austin

KIM CLARK
Instructor,
Loyola University

TIM COLE, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
University of California, Santa Barbara

BLAIR DAVIS, Ph.D.,
Instructor,
McGill University

MICHAEL DEANGELIS, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
University of Texas, Austin

BRUCE EVENSEN, Ph.D.,
Professor,
University of Wisconsin

DUSTY GOLTZ, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
Arizona State University

STEPHANIE HOWELL, M.A.,
Instructor,
Southern Illinois University

SEAN HORAN, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
West Virginia State

KELLY KESSLER, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Texas, Austin

YEUSEUNG KIM, M.A.,
Instructor,
University of Florida

MARLA KRAUSE, M.A.,
Instructor and DePaulia Advisor,
University of Chicago

LUCY XING LU, Ph.D.,
Professor,
University of Oregon

DANIEL MAKAGON, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
University of South Florida

DONALD MARTIN, Ph.D.,
Professor and Associate Dean,
University of Texas, Austin

JASON MARTIN, M.A.
Instructor,
Indiana University

THERESA MASTIN, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
Michigan State University

ALEXANDRA MURPHY, Ph.D.
Associate Professor,
University of South Florida

JILL O'BRIEN, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
University of Illinois, Urbana

WILLONA OLISON, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
Northwestern University

LISA PECOT-HEBERT, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Georgia

KIMBERLEE PEREZ, M.A.
Instructor,

Arizona State University

MATT RAGAS, M.A.
Instructor
University of Florida

MICHAEL REILLEY, M.A.
Instructor
Northwestern University

LOU RUTIGLIANO, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Texas

SUCHITRA SHENOY, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
Purdue University

BARBARA SPEICHER, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
Northwestern University

JC. BRUNO TEBOUL, Ph.D.,
Professor and Associate Dean,
Ohio State University

HAI TRAN, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

SCOTT VYVERMAN, M.A.,
Instructor and Radio DePaul Advisor,
Northeastern Illinois University

BARBARA WILLARD, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
University of Iowa

MICHAELA WINCHATZ, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor,
University of Washington

DANIEL WINDELS, M.A.,
Instructor
University of Texas, Austin

KASEY WINDELS, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Texas, Austin

KAY YOON, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Illinois, Urbana

ELIZABETH ZOUFAL, M.A.,
Instructor,
University of Illinois, Urbana

Bachelor of Arts Degree Requirements

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Bachelor of Arts Degree Requirements

Competence in Modern Language

Competence in Modern Language

Students who intend to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Communication will be required to demonstrate competence in a modern language. Such competence may be demonstrated in one of several ways:

- completing the last course in a second year high school course work in a modern language or Latin
- completing the last course in the first-year college sequence of any language completing a college course beyond the first-year level in any language
- achieving a satisfactory score on any of the Modern Language placement examinations administered at DePaul
- achieving a satisfactory rating in a proficiency examination accepted by DePaul
- achieving a score of 3 or higher on the Advance Placement (AP) test for any language (must be completed during high school)
- achieving a score of 5 or higher in the Language B assessment from a Standard or Higher Level International Baccalaureate (IB) program
- achieving a satisfactory score on the CLEP examination. (Note that CLEP scores may be used only to meet the language requirement. Credit is not awarded in modern languages on the basis of CLEP scores).

Students with some modern language training should consult with the Modern Language Department about the course with which they should begin. Students with little or no previous work in the language will be required to complete the entire three-course introductory sequence.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Bachelor of Arts Degree Requirements ▢ Liberal Studies Requirements

Liberal Studies Requirements

First Year Program
Chicago Quarter	LSP 110 or LSP 111
Focal Point	LSP 112
Writing	WRD 103* and WRD 104*
Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy	LSP 120 and LSP 121 (Note: See information below.)
Sophomore Year
Multiculturalism in the US	LSP 200
Junior Year
Experiential Learning	Required
Senior Year
Capstone	Required*
Learning Domains

Arts and Literature (AL)	2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)	2 Courses Required
Scientific Inquiry (SI)	3 Courses Required (Note : One must be a Lab.)
Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)	2 Courses Required
Religious Dimensions (RD)	2 Courses Required
Understanding the Past (UP)	2 Courses Required
Note:	* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Note: Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the students major and is cross-listed with a course within the students major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy :

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Bachelor of Arts Degree Requirements ▢ Major Requirements

Major Requirements

All majors in the College of Communication consist of a total of thirteen courses. All majors complete a three-course common core and a combination of ten program requirements and electives. All communication majors must complete a declaration of major form on Campus Connect.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Bachelor of Arts Degree Requirements ▢ Unrestricted Electives

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the Bachelors degree by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any course offered by DePaul University. All communication majors must complete a declaration of major form on Campus Connect.

Minors

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Minors

Cinema Studies Minor

Students must take MCS 273 Style and Storytelling in Cinema, three History/Criticism Courses, and two Production courses from the following:

Three History/Criticism Courses from the following:

- MCS 207 History of Cinema I, 1890-1945
- MCS 208 History of Cinema II, 1945-1975
- MCS 209 History of Cinema III, 1975-present
- MCS 231 Introduction to Documentary Studies
- MCS 331 Topics in Documentary Studies
- MCS 343 Media Ethics
- MCS 348 Topics in Film Genre
- MCS 349 Topics in Film Studies
- MCS 350 Topics in Global Cinema
- MCS 383 Talking about Film: Theory and Criticism

Two Production courses from the following:

- MCS 356 Topics in Documentary Production
- DC 200 Media Literacies
- DC 201 Introduction to Screenwriting
- DC 210 Digital Cinema Production I
- DC 215 Digital Sound Design
- DC 220 Editing I
- DC 275 Cinematography and Lighting
- DC 310 Digital Cinema Production II
- DC 301 Advanced Screenwriting I
- DC 371 Documentary Production
- CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship
- CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Minors ▢ Communication and Media Minor

Communication and Media Minor

A minor in Communication and Media consists of a total of 6 courses. Students may select from 3 course offerings starting with the prefix CMNS, INTC, ORGC and RELC, and 3 from JOUR, MCS, and PRAD. Any of these six courses may be replaced with CMN 394 or CMN 395.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Minors ▢ Communication Studies Minor

Communication Studies Minor

A minor in Communication Studies consists of 6 course offerings in Communication Studies.

Methods Requirement

All Communication Studies minors are required to take one communication methods course. Students may choose from the following selection of methods classes:

- CMNS 291 Research Methods
- INTC 331 (formerly CMNS 331) Communication Fieldwork
- INTC 310 (formerly CMNS 310) Discourse Analysis
- INTC 321 (formerly CMNS 321) Cultural and Symbolic Criticism
- CMNS 332 Topics in Communication Methodology
- INTC 332 Topics in Intercultural Communication Methodology

Presentation Requirement

All Communication Studies minors must take one presentation skills course from the following selection of classes:

- ORGC 201 (formerly CMNS 201) Business and Professional Communication
- INTC 220 (formerly CMNS 220) Public Speaking
- INTC 230 (formerly CMNS 230) Performance of Literature
- INTC 322 (formerly CMNS 322) Advanced Public Speaking (prerequisite INTC 220, or permission)
- INTC 330 (formerly CMNS 330) Topics in Performance
- ORGC 354 (formerly CMNS 354) Employment Interviewing
- CMNS 306 Topics in Presentation

Students may take their 4 remaining classes from the following prefixes CMNS, INTC, ORGC, RELC, as well as CMN 394 and CMN 395.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Minors ▫ Documentary Studies Minor

Documentary Studies Minor

Students take a total of six courses.

- MCS 231 Introduction to Documentary Studies
- MCS 383 Audio Documentary or DC 371 Documentary Production.

Four remaining classes must be taken from among the following:

- MCS 373 (formerly CMN 373) - Audio Documentary
- DC 371 - Documentary Production
- MCS 331 Topics in Documentary
- MCS 389 Topics in Media Production: Podcasting
- JOUR 276 (formerly CMN 276) - Photojournalism
- JOUR 377 (formerly CMN 377) - Topics in Journalism: Literary Journalism
- ART 291 Art and Social Interaction: Documentary Video
- ART 328 Documentary Photography
- LST 300 Topics in Latin American Studies: Documentary in the Americas
- MUS 208 Community Audio Art*
- SOC 417 - Ethnographic Documentary Filmmaking
- SOC 418 - Documentary Film in the Social Sciences
- CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship

Notes:

Classes only count toward Documentary Studies Minor if offered in the topic listed.

* Class available only to School of Music majors.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Minors ▫ Intercultural Communication Minor

Intercultural Communication Minor

Intercultural Communication Minor

To complete the minor in Intercultural Communication, students must take:

- CMN 103 Intercultural Communication and either,
- INTC 220 (formerly CMNS 220) Public Speaking OR
- INTC 230 (formerly CMNS 230) Performance of Literature.

Students may complete a minor in Intercultural Communication by taking four more courses from:

- INTC 205 (formerly CMNS 205) Communication, Culture and Community
- INTC 308 (formerly CMNS 308) Topics in Intercultural Communication
- INTC 309 (formerly CMNS 309) Global Communication
- INTC 310 (formerly CMNS 310) Discourse Analysis
- INTC 321 (formerly CMNS 321) Cultural and Symbolic Criticism
- INTC 330 (formerly CMNS 330) Topics in Performance (Intercultural Topics)
- INTC 333 (formerly CMNS 333) Cultural Ways of Speaking
- INTC 334 (formerly CMNS 334) Urban Communication
- INTC 337 (formerly CMNS 337) Asian-American Media Representations
- INTC 338 (formerly CMNS 338) Asian Culture and Communication
- INTC 361 (formerly CMNS 361) Gender and Communication
- CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Minors ▫ Journalism Minor

Journalism Minor

The Journalism Minor

A minor in Journalism consists of JOUR 275 Introduction to Journalism, JOUR 278 News Reporting (formerly Advanced Reporting, JOUR 378) and any four offerings in the Journalism curriculum. This includes either CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship or CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics, if those internships are journalism-related.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Minors ▫ Media and Cinema Studies Minor

Media and Cinema Studies Minor

Students must take both MCS 271 Media and Cultural Studies and MCS 273 Style and Storytelling in Cinema, plus three History/Criticism and one Production elective.

Three History/Criticism Courses from the following:

- MCS 207 History of Cinema I, 1890-1945
- MCS 208 History of Cinema II, 1945-1975
- MCS 209 History of Cinema III, 1975-present
- MCS 341 Topics in Radio Studies
- MCS 342 History of Television and Radio
- MCS 343 Media Ethics
- MCS 348 Topics in Film Genre
- MCS 349 Topics in Film Studies
- MCS 350 Topics in Global Cinema
- MCS 351 Topics in Television Studies

- MCS 352 Topics in New Media
- MCS 361 Fandom and Participatory Culture
- MCS 366 Communication, Technology, and Society
- MCS 383 Talking about Film: Theory and Criticism
- MCS 231 Introduction to Documentary Studies
- MCS 331 Topics in Documentary Studies
- CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship
- CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics
- INTC 309 (Formally CMNS 309) Global Communication

One Production course from the following:

- MCS 339 Radio Broadcasting
- MCS 356 Topics in Documentary Production
- MCS 357 Topics in Television Production
- MCS 373 Audio Documentary
- MCS 386 Radio Production
- MCS 389 Topics in Media Production
- DC 201 Introduction to Screenwriting
- DC 210 Digital Cinema Production I
- DC 215 Digital Sound Design
- DC 220 Editing I
- DC 272 Writing for Television
- DC 275 Cinematography and Lighting
- DC 280 Storytelling with Machinima
- DC 271 Introduction to Television Production
- DC 310 Digital Cinema Production II
- DC 301 Advanced Screenwriting I
- DC 371 Documentary Production
- DC 372 Topics in TV Production
- JOUR 276 Photojournalism
- ANI 101 Animation
- ANI 105 Motion Design
- ART 328 Documentary Photography
- CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship
- CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics

Addendum : Prior course credit for CMN 272 Concepts in Media Design; or CMN 347 Mass Media Criticism can still count as History/Criticism electives for any of the above-mentioned areas.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Minors ▫ Performance Studies Minor

Performance Studies Minor

The Performance Studies Minor requires students to complete a total of 24 credit hours (six courses).

Students minoring in Performance Studies must take CMNS 230, Performance of Literature and five courses from the following:

INTC 206 (formerly CMNS 206), Communicating Multicultural Identities

The course examines identity from a critical/poststructuralist position, approaching the notion of identity as a performative and discursive production within complex systems of power, privilege, and oppression. Together, the class will examine the ways in which discourse influences our performances of personal identity as well as the ways that it constructs our ideas about other identities (gender, race sexuality, etc.). Through reading, discussion, and reflection, we will interrogate how individual and group identities are theorized, constructed, negotiated, and transformed; how identity is shaped by rhetorical/discursive and non-discursive practices; and how identity construction is situated in historical/social/political/ideological contexts. The course has been approved as a Sophomore Multicultural Seminar in the Liberal Studies Domain.

INTC 305 (formerly CMNS 305), Performance Studies

The course traces the shift from the field of Oral Interpretation to the emergence of Performance Studies, as a discipline, with particular attention to the primary theorists and practitioners that have set the foundation and scope of the field of Performance. Taking a historical approach to the development of the field, the course will explore performance epistemologies, performative methodologies, and performative theories, offering students the opportunity to study and engage contemporary approaches to performance research.

INTC 308 (formerly CMNS 308), Topics in Intercultural Communication

Examination of the application of linguistic and rhetorical theories to various specializations in cultural discourse. The course focuses each term on one particular area such as semiotics, language acquisition, or language and power.

INTC 309 (formerly CMNS 309), International/Global Communication

Focuses on the world of international/global news flow and media systems in a comparative manner. Emphasizes changes that have followed the modernization of the media, the impact of globalization on individual countries, attempts to preserve the cultural character of domestic media content in the face of increased amounts of imported products, and the effects of new communication technologies, particularly the Internet.

INTC 323 (formerly CMNS 323), Communication and Social Movements

This course examines the rhetoric of social movements throughout American History. As a rhetoric class, the focus is primarily on the symbolic creation of movements in order to provide background of the political and social events that gave rise to the movement. Using readings from a variety of sources, we will investigate the discursive construction of power as it relates to society and politics. The class will take a case-study approach to examining social movement rhetoric, exploring the discourse that has served to resist oppressive, or perceptively oppressive, systems.

INTC 334 (formerly CMNS 334), Urban Communication

Examines relationships between material features of the city and symbolic representations of urban life (e.g., photography, film, songs, public discourse) with the goal of understanding the city as a site of communication. Special attention is paid to expressions of hope for and fear of the city.

INTC 330 (formerly CMNS 330), Topics in Performance

Advanced study in performance focusing on a specific genre each quarter such as: Poetry, Fiction, Nonfiction, Drama or Chamber Theater. Other possibilities include: performing autobiography; life performances; ritual, ceremony, and storytelling; and radio and television performances.

(Sample topics: Performance of Gender and Sexuality and Personal Narrative/Solo Performance) This course can and will be repeated for multiple course credit.

INTC 367 (formerly CMNS 367), Performance for Social Change

This is an experiential field experience that examines the role of performance in social activism. Student projects will identify a social issue of critical concerns and devise a performative response.

PRF 290 Performance Workshop for Non-majors

Performance Workshop (4 quarter hours) Students work on basic performance skills through individual and group exercises in acting, voice and speech and movement. Note: Can be taken by non-Theatre School students.

WGS 219 Gender and Performance

This course uses performance as a critical method for exploring how gender is socially constructed and enacted in every day life as a means for learning what it means to be "feminine/masculine" or "other." Performances onstage, as well as everyday communicative behaviors, will be explored through performance workshops and discussions.

INTC 392 (formerly CMNS 392), Independent Study

1-4 credit hours.

Students take both MCS 271 Media and Cultural Studies and MCS 342 History of Television and Radio, plus three History/Criticism Courses and one Production course.

Three History/Criticism Courses from the following:

- MCS 231 Introduction to Documentary Studies
- MCS 271 Media and Cultural Studies
- MCS 331 Topics in Documentary Studies
- MCS 341 Topics in Radio Studies
- MCS 343 -- Media Ethics
- MCS 351 Topics in Television Studies
- MCS 352 Topics in New Media
- MCS 361 -- Fandom and Participatory Culture
- MCS 366 -- Communication, Technology, and Society
- INTC 309 (Formerly CMNS 309) -- Global Communication
- CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship
- CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics

One Production course from the following:

- MCS 339 Radio Broadcasting
- MCS 357 Topics in Television Production
- MCS 373 Audio Documentary
- MCS 386 Radio Production
- MCS 389 Topics in Media Production
- DC 201 Introduction to Screenwriting
- DC 210 Digital Cinema Production I
- DC 215 Digital Sound Design
- DC 220 Editing I
- DC 272 Writing for Television
- DC 275 Cinematography and Lighting
- DC 280 Storytelling with Machinima
- DC 271 Introduction to Television Production
- DC 371 Documentary Production
- DC 372 Topics in TV Production
- JOUR 276 Photojournalism
- ANI 101 Animation
- ANI 105 Motion Design
- ART 328 Documentary Photography
- CMN 394 Advanced Internship
- CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies □ Minors □ Relational, Group and Organizational Communication

Relational, Group and Organizational Communication

To complete the minor in Relational, Group and Organizational Communication, students must take:

- CMNS 291 Research Methods
- CMNS 360 Communication Theory

Students may complete a minor in RGO Communication by taking four more courses from:

- RELC 211 (formerly CMNS 211), Interpersonal Communication
- ORGC 212 (formerly 212), Small Group Communication
- ORGC 251 (formerly CMNS 251), Organizational Communication
- RELC 311 (formerly CMNS 311), Topics in Relational Communication
- RELC 312 (formerly CMNS 312), Evolution and Communication

- RELC 313 (formerly CMNS 313), Nonverbal Communication
- RELC 314 (formerly CMNS 314), Family Communication
- CMNS 315 Health Communication
- ORGC 316 (formerly CMNS 316), Communication and Group Decision-Making
- ORGC 317 (formerly CMNS 317), Topics in Group Communication
- RELC 318 (formerly CMNS 318), Close Relationships
- RELC 319 (formerly CMNS 319), The Dark Side of Personal Relationships
- RELC 320 (formerly CMNS 320), Deceptive Communication
- RELC 329 (formerly CMNS 329), Persuasion
- RELC 340 (formerly CMNS 340), Communicating & Dating
- ORGC 350 (formerly CMNS 350), Socialization to Work
- ORGC 352 (formerly CMNS 352), Communication and Corporate Culture
- ORGC 353 (formerly CMNS 353), Communication and Organizational Change
- ORGC 354 (formerly CMNS 354) Employment Interviewing
- ORGC 355 (formerly CMNS 355), Conflict Management and Negotiation
- ORGC 358 (formerly CMNS 358), Leadership and Team-Building
- ORGC 356 (formerly CMNS 356), Communication Consulting
- ORGC 357 (formerly CMNS 357), Topics in Organizational Communication
- CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship
- CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Minors ▫ Latino Media and Communication

Latino Media and Communication

The minor in Latino Media and Communication is comprised of six courses. The minor allows students within the college and from other colleges, who have a strong interest in focusing their interest in Latino Studies, to develop them within the communication field. Students opting to pursue a minor in Latino Media and Communication may not pursue a concentration in the same subject area.

Minor Goals:

The program educates students to think critically about all aspects of media and communication, with a particular focus on Latino media and Latino communities. Coursework will provide students with the applied skills necessary to create communication strategies which effectively reach the Latino segment of the population, based on an understanding of Latino cultures in the US and grounded in an understanding of its cultural, economic and sociological aspects.

Learning Goals.

Students who complete the minor will:

- Develop an understanding of the heterogeneous and rapidly changing Latino communities locally, nationally, and globally.
- Ground their knowledge of intercultural studies within a more extensive and concrete knowledge of a particular (even though diverse), rapidly growing, and increasingly important population within the US Latino communities.
- Increase their cross-cultural competence (understanding and ability to dialogue across difference, develop cultural sensitivity and awareness) with Latino communities.
- Develop insights into the needs and motivations of Latino populations in the workplace, in community situations, and other sites of engagement, and develop communications tools and strategies to address those needs and motivations.
- Enhance their capacity to communicate with and learn from Latino populations in the workplace, in community situations, and other sites of engagement.
- Recognize the impact of the movement of Latinos across the globe and to develop the skills to critically consume and produce media, public relations, and advertisement representations that communicate to and about Latino communities.
- Both engage and demonstrate their interest in Latino Studies within and across diverse areas of knowledge production in the Communication field.

The Curriculum.

One required core course. Students may choose from EITHER of the following to meet the core course requirement:

LST 202 Multiculturalism in the United States: The Construction of Latino Communities

An introductory course that highlights the experiences of the major Latino groups in the United States. It brings together insight from history, politics, sociology, anthropology, literature, film and art to explore the social and cultural experiences of the Latino communities. The course deals with issues of immigration, relationships to home countries, border cultures, identity, and strategies of employment.

INTC 335 (formerly CMNS 335) Latino Communication, Culture, & Community

Examines the relationships among Latino cultures, communication, institutions, and public and private life. Students explore the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through service in Latino community organizations. The course also fulfills the junior year experiential learning requirement through community based service learning.

Any additional five courses from:

LST 202 Multiculturalism in the United States: The Construction of Latino Communities

An introductory course that highlights the experiences of the major Latino groups in the United States. It brings together insight from history, politics, sociology, anthropology, literature, film and art to explore the social and cultural experiences of the Latino communities. The course deals with issues of immigration, relationships to home countries, border cultures, identity, and strategies of employment.

PSY 220 Latina/o Psychology

The purpose of this course is to examine the psychological research literature on the mental health and well being of Latina/o populations in the United States. A number of relevant topics will be examined, including the current state of Latinas/os in psychology, cultural characteristics and values, immigration, acculturation, ethnic identity, stereotypes and discrimination, health, and education. The goal of this course is for students to be better equipped in understanding the factors that influence the psychology of the Latina/o population.

INTC 335 (formerly CMNS 335) Latino Communication, Culture, & Community

Examines the relationships among Latino culture, communication, institutions, and public and private life. Students explore the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through service in Latino community organizations. The course also fulfills the junior year experiential learning requirement through community based service learning.

INTC 308 (formerly CMNS 308) Topics in Intercultural Communication: (for designated Latino-focused topics)

For example ORIGINS: This course examines some of the foundations of Latino culture in both Mexico City and Chicago through a two one-week immersion experiences in each city. Students create photographic projects while examining the history, cultural discourses, rituals, and other aspects of culture in the Latino communities in both countries. The immersion weeks each involve 5 day-long classes with lectures and field trips. This is an exchange program with Universidad Panamericana in Mexico City.

An additional topic is The Puerto Rican Nation: A Transnational Perspective: A Service Learning Travel Course to Puerto Rico. This service learning travel course is a three-week study abroad summer session in Puerto Rico. It combines two courses in Modern Languages and Latin American and Latino Studies where students will explore transnational connections that create a nation transcending national borders and binding the reality of Puerto Ricans on the island with those living in diaspora in Chicago and elsewhere.

JOUR 377 Journalism Topics (for designated Latino-focused topics)

This course allows students to sample a range of topical offerings in journalism that have included press law and ethics, arts and entertainment reporting, business and finance reporting, science and technology reporting, health and medicine reporting, tabloid journalism, war reporting, and reporting religion and moral issues. Topics for this concentration might include: Covering the Latino Community in Chicago, Covering the Immigration Debate, Latino Popular Culture (Prereq: JOUR 275).

LST 300 Topics in Latin American Studies: Documentary in the Americas This course explores the various forms and functions of documentary in Latin American countries and created by Latin American documentary filmmakers and videomakers.

MCS 350 Topics in Global Cinema: Latin American Cinemas

This course is designed as a critical study of global filmmakers and the issues surrounding cinema and its transnational circulation. The class will examine specific aspects of the growth and evolution of cinema and look at points of contact between different cultural discourses, national cinematic styles, genres, and reception. Artistic, social, political, and industrial issues will be examined to provide different models of cinematic creation and consumption. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 353 Topics in Media Studies (cross-listed with CMNS 308 Topics in Intercultural Communication: Topic - Photography and Culture ORIGINS)

This course examines some of the foundations of Latino culture in Mexico City, Guadalajara Mexico and Chicago through two one-week immersion experiences in both countries. Students create photographic projects while examining the history, cultural discourse, economics, cultural rituals and other aspects of culture in the Latino communities in both countries.

MCS 375 Latino/a Television and Media

Drawing from Latin American and U.S. television studies, this course explores the political, industrial and cultural dynamics that shape televisual representations in Latin American television and/or Spanish language Television in the US. More specifically, Spanish-language television and media will be examined from interdisciplinary frameworks, which include the cultural analysis of televisual modes, national and international regulations of media production and distribution, histories of production, and ethnographies of viewing.

MCS 376 Latin American Cinema

This course examines the production, distribution and impact of cinema in the Latin American context. Transnational relations with other industries, such as Hollywood and the European film context will be considered. We will investigate how social, economic and political forces have shaped or are presently influencing and transforming national cinemas. Questions of identity and cultural difference, particularly in relation to immigration, diasporas, transnationalism, youth culture, class, gender, sexuality, race and ethnicity are central to the discussions. We will consider the diversity of styles and topics that are now redefining the cinema of the region.

PRAD 361 Account Planning and Consumer Insights for Latino Markets

This course encompasses both the similarities and differences of Latino consumers in the U.S. and explores the differences among the unique Latino cultures, their media habits and the effectiveness of using various promotional tools to affect their consumer behavior. The account planner represents the voice of the consumer in the advertising process. This course will examine the role of account planning and its relationship within advertising agencies to creative development. Special emphasis will be placed on the qualitative and ethnographic research techniques used by planners, and the role that curiosity and empathy play in understanding different Latino consumer audiences to gain insight about these groups' motivations and behaviors. Prerequisite: PRAD 244.

PRAD 362 Latino Strategic Communication Campaigns (formerly PRAD 392)

Focuses on how to effectively target messages to Latino populations in ways that move beyond stereotypic and simplistic models of Latino audiences. Emphasis on developing culturally relevant integrated campaigns that incorporate appreciation of the diversity of Latino audiences. Students learn creative strategies for dialoguing with Latino consumers, customers, stakeholders, and influencers to develop public relations and advertising messaging in both the commercial and non-profit sector. Distinctive characteristics of the Latino population are considered, along with the rich diversity of these communities. Consideration given to effective use of new media and strategic decisions about communicating in English versus Spanish. Successful completion of PRAD 244 or 255; PRAD 256; and CMNS/PRAD 291 is required prior to entrance to any PRAD campaigns course.

PRAD 392 Special Topics in Advertising

This course allows students to sample a range of topical offerings in advertising that have included Media Planning, Advertising in the Digital Age, Ad Copywriting, Advanced Advertising Campaigns, Consumer Promotions, and Psychology of Advertising. Topics for this concentration might include: Media Planning for Latino Markets, Ad Copywriting for Latino Markets, The Advertising Industry in Latin America. Prerequisite: PRAD 244

PRAD 391 Special Topics in Public Relations

This course allows students to sample a range of topical offerings in public relations that have included International Communication and PR, Event Planning, and Study Abroad. In addition to these topics, new topics for this concentration might include Media Relations in Latin America, The Use of Social Media Among Latinos, Marketing PR Strategies for Latino Markets, and other Latino relevant topics. Prerequisite: PRAD 244 or PRAD 255.

MKT 340 Marketing across Cultures Latin Markets

The course is designed to challenge students to think critically about culture and international marketing, with an emphasis and perspective on Latin America. The course is structured to examine cross-cultural and intercultural approaches that intertwine with the international business environment and the impact that both have on the marketing of goods and services.

MKT 341 Integrated Marketing Communication: Multicultural Markets

An overview of the principles of integrated marketing communications and how these are applied to the growing multicultural market in the US. The course will focus on the application of integrating marketing principles to this increasingly complex and fragmented market. The course includes an overview of the multicultural markets, media environment, and the tools available for designing integrated marketing communications programs, including promotions. The course structure will include statistical reports, case studies, exercises, experiences and guest lectures. Real-life cases will be studied in the class with students delivering a mini-advertising/IMC plan at the end of the course.

CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship (for credit in this concentration, the internships must focus on Latino media and communication)

Placement of students in business, industry, or not-for-profit major specific internships. Opportunities in advertising, public relations, journalism, radio and television, museums and philanthropic outreach organizations. Program open to communication majors and minors who meet eligibility requirements.

CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics (for credit in this concentration, the internships must focus on Latino media and communication)

This course is for students who wish to receive academic credit for a second or third internship. Must be a Communication major or minor who has completed CMN 394 or ISP250 and meets eligibility requirements. Must be taken concurrently with an internship. Topics include building and managing a communication career, effective networking, and leadership development.

SPN 393: Latino Media Literacy

This class explores the role and impact of the media in the Latino community and how Latinos are represented as well as how they view themselves. It explores Latino communities participation as creators and consumers of popular and media cultures. It examines media organization and their role in shaping popular cultures. This is both an upper level undergraduate and graduate level, inter-disciplinary course in Spanish that draws on bilingual readings. Students can also explore these issues through service learning with community partners and by doing a minimum of 25 hours service can receive credit for the Junior Year Experimental Learning domain.

SPN 198, 298, 398 Foreign Language

CSS 201 Perspectives on Community Service

CSS 390 Special Topics in Community Service Studies (cross-listed with LST 300 Special Topics: Transnational Communities: Puerto Rico/ABD Fall Quarter)

The post-trip Fall Quarter course will focus on Puerto Rican nationalism, culture, media and politics in Chicago and will include a service- learning component. Students will be guided through critical analysis of their experiences in Puerto Rico in order to enhance their service learning experiences. They will complete a final project developed in conjunction with one of the cultural, academic, or business sites in the community and will be challenged to link these projects to the knowledge they acquired in Puerto Rico.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies □ Minors □ Rhetoric Minor

Rhetoric Minor

To complete the minor in Rhetoric, students must take:

- CMN 103, Intercultural Communication and either
- INTC 220, (formerly CMNS 220) Public Speaking OR
- INTC 230, (formerly CMNS 230) Performance of Literature.

Students may complete a minor in Rhetoric by taking four more courses from:

- INTC 307 (formerly CMNS 307) Topics in Political and Social Communication
 - (Rhetoric Topics)
- INTC 308 (formerly CMNS 308) Topics in Intercultural Communication (Rhetoric Topics)
- ITNC 310 (formerly CMNS 310) Discourse Analysis
- INTC 321 (formerly CMNS 321) Cultural and Symbolic Criticism
- INTC 322 (formerly CMNS 322) Advanced Public Speaking
- INTC 323 (formerly CMNS 323) Social Movements
- INTC 324 (formerly CMNS 324) Culture of Consumption
- INTC 325 (formerly CMNS 325) Promoting Sustainable Practices (formerly Environmental Communication Workshop)
- INTC 326 (formerly CMNS 326) Environmental Politics and Rhetoric
- RELC 329 (formerly CMNS 329) Persuasion
- INTC 328 (formerly CMNS 328) History of Rhetoric and Communication
- INTC 367 (formerly CMNS 367) Performance for Social Change
- CMN 394 Advanced Internship
- CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics

Special Programs

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Special Programs

Special Programs

American Advertising Federation (AAF)

The DePaul Student Advertising Group is the official organization for students interested in advertising at DePaul University. Our purpose is to bring together students who share a passion for great advertising and communication solutions. Our group helps prepare students for a career in advertising by facilitating an ongoing dialogue that covers the latest developments and trends in the ad industry. We do this through a mix of guest speakers and advertising industry presentations, student ad competitions, networking and career information sessions, visits to local Chicago area advertising/communication agencies, and social events.

Debate

The College of Communication promotes social and political discussion through debate. This activity develops presentation, reasoning and persuasive skills and offers students the opportunity to participate in a variety of formats. Debate also deepens students' understanding of the issues which will shape the future.

DePaul Communication Organization (DCO)

Students who are interested in the field of Communication may join DCO, a student-run organization. DCO hosts a variety of activities, speaking events, and site visits throughout the year that allow students an opportunity to network with one another as well as professionals in the field. DCO is open to all DePaul students regardless of their major.

Good Day DePaul (GDD)

Good Day DePaul is a student run news magazine show that caters to DePaul students and college aged students in general. The program films one to two times a month and features DePaul news as well as current events. Students produce, direct, and anchor the program, as well as conduct in studio interviews.

Internship College

The College offers an internship program through which majors and minors can earn academic credit and gain practical experience in a professional setting. Students may be enrolled in CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship, and/or CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics (topics vary), only after meeting college-established eligibility requirements. An individual student may participate in several internship experiences. A maximum of 16 quarter hours of internship and practicum credit can be applied to degree requirements. CMN 394 may be used to fulfill the Junior Year Experiential Learning Requirement in the Liberal Studies Program and/or as a major field requirement. If a second internship is taken, CMN 395 may count as a communication elective. A maximum of two graded internships can be used toward the major field requirements. Subsequent hours of internship credit are taken through different CMN 395 special topics courses and fulfill unrestricted electives. Communication minors may have one graded internship count towards completion of the minor.

Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA)

PRSSA is a student-run organization for those interested in a career in public relations. The DePaul chapter organizes a variety of activities throughout the academic year including visits to Chicago public relations agencies, career fairs, speaker events featuring industry professionals, as well as a mentoring program and young alumni outreach effort geared to connect members to recent graduates now in the field.

Radio DePaul

The College manages Radio DePaul, the campus radio station. Students may earn up to eight credit hours (four in the major) for radio production by enrolling with instructors permission in CMN 393, Communication Practicum.

Society of Professional Journalists (SPJ)

This is a student-run organization for students interested in careers in journalism. The DePaul chapter sponsors campus speakers, career information sessions, and journalism seminars/conferences. Student members are eligible to apply for SPJ-sponsored internships and student competitions.

The DePaulia

The DePaulia is the university's student-run paper and web site, which is integrated into the Communication curriculum. Published weekly since 1922, the newspaper covers news, sports, features, and community-related events. Editors on the newspaper are eligible for four hours of credit under JOUR 393, Journalism Practicum.

Degree Programs

Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Degree Programs ▫ Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies

Liberal Studies Requirements

Core Requirements

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Degree Programs ▫ Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies ▫ Liberal Studies Requirements

Liberal Studies Requirements

First Year Program
Chicago Quarter	LSP 110 or LSP 111
Focal Point	LSP 112
Writing	WRD 103 and WRD 104
Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy	LSP 120 and LSP 121 (Note: This proficiency can be met through exams at QRC .)
Sophomore Year
Multiculturalism in the US	LSP 200
Junior Year
Experiential Learning	Required
Senior Year
Capstone	Required
Learning Domains
Arts and Literature (AL)	2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)	2 Courses Required
Scientific Inquiry (SI)	3 Courses Required (Note : One must be Lab)
Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)	2 Courses Required
Religious Dimensions (RD)	2 Courses Required
Understanding the Past (UP)	2 Courses Required

Note: Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy : All Communication students must complete the placement exam for Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy. Students must complete the one course into which they place (LSP 120 or LSP 121). Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Effective Summer 2010, changes were made to the liberal studies domain requirements allowing for more flexibility.

Current students may also benefit from the less restrictive LSP domain requirements. Please note that the change is reflected in this liberal studies requirement grid.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies □ Degree Programs □ Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies □ Core Requirements

Core Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Communication Studies. The program explores effective and participatory communication in interpersonal, small group, public, organizational, intercultural, rhetorical and performative contexts. Through a blend of theory and practice, students are encouraged to think, speak, and write clearly; to develop confidence and ability as ethical communicators; to view communication events from multiple perspectives; to understand the multicultural character of communication in contemporary society; to analyze and evaluate variables operating in verbal transactions; to probe the basic problems of human communication in order to understand self, others, and events; and to recognize the connections between communication studies and other disciplines.

Students whose professional goals are in the public, private, or non-profit sectors, such as government, training and human resources, and social and human services are well served by relational, group, and organizational communication, as well as courses in communication and culture, performance studies, and rhetoric. In addition, the B.A. in Communication Studies prepares students who want to continue their education, to excel in academic or professional graduate programs.

The Communication Studies Full-Time Faculty

JACQUELINE TAYLOR, Ph.D.,
Professor and Dean
University of Texas, Austin

DAVID BRENDERS, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
Purdue University

LEAH BRYANT, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of Nebraska

TIM COLE, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of California, Santa Barbara

DUSTIN GOLTZ, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
Arizona State University

STEPHANIE HOWELL, M.A.,
Instructor
Southern Illinois University

SEAN HORAN, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
West Virginia State University

LUCY XING LU, Ph.D.,
Professor
University of Oregon

DANIEL MAKAGON, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of South Florida

DONALD MARTIN, Ph.D.,
Professor & Associate Dean
University of Texas, Austin

ALEXANDRA MURPHY, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of South Florida

JILL OBRIEN, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of Illinois, Urbana

WILLONA OLISON, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
Northwestern University

KIMBERLEE PEREZ, M.A.,
Instructor
Arizona State University

SUCHITRA SHENOY, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
Purdue University

BARBARA SPEICHER, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
Northwestern University

JC. BRUNO TEBOUL, Ph.D.,
Professor and Associate Dean
Ohio State University

BARBARA WILLARD, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of Iowa

MICHAELA WINCHATZ, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
University of Washington

KAY YOON, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
University of Illinois, Urbana

ELIZABETH ZOUFAL, M.A.
Instructor - Debate Coach
University of Illinois, Urbana

The Communication Studies Major

Communication Studies majors must complete the three core courses required of all College of Communication students. In addition, they must take seven classes from among the Communication Studies course offerings. One of these must be a methods course, another must be a presentation course, and of the seven, five must be 300-level courses. Communication Studies majors must also take any three electives within the College of Communication. All Communication Studies majors must complete a total of 13 classes, or 52 credit hours.

Common Core

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

CMN 101, Introduction to Human Communication
CMN 102 Introduction to Mass Communication
CMN 103 Intercultural Communication

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Methods Requirement

All Communication Studies majors are required to take one communication methods course. Students may choose from the following selection of methods classes:

CMNS 291 Research Methods
INTC 331, (formerly CMNS 331) Communication Fieldwork
INTC 310 (formerly CMNS 310), Discourse Analysis
INTC 321 (formerly CMNS 321), Cultural and Symbolic Criticism
CMNS 332, Topics in Communication Methodology
INTC 332, Topics in Intercultural Communication Methodology

Presentation Requirement

All Communication Studies majors must take one presentation skills course from the following selection of classes:

ORGC 201, (formerly CMNS 201) Business and Professional Communication
INTC 220, (formerly CMNS 220), Public Speaking
INTC 230, (formerly CMNS 230), Performance of Literature
INTC 322 (formerly CMNS 322), Advanced Public Speaking (prerequisite INTC 220, or permission)
INTC 330 (formerly CMNS 330), Topics in Performance
ORGC 354 (formerly CMNS 354), Employment Interviewing
CMNS 306 Topics in Presentation

Electives in Communication Studies

Communication Studies majors must take an additional five courses from the list of offerings below.

ORGC 201, (formerly CMNS 201) Business and Professional Communication
INTC 205, (formerly CMNS 205), Communication, Culture and Community
INTC 206, Communicating Multicultural identities
RELC 211, (formerly CMNS 211), Interpersonal Communication
ORGC 212, (formerly CMNS 212), Small Group Communication
INTC 220, (formerly CMNS 220), Public Speaking
INTC 230, (formerly CMN 230), Performance of Literature
ORGC 251, (formerly CMNS 251), Organizational Communication
CMNS 290, Communication Studies Workshop
INTC 290, Intercultural Communication Workshop
ORGC 290, Organizational Communication Workshop
RELC 290, Relational Communication Workshop
CMNS 291 Research Methods
CMNS 306 Topics in Presentation
INTC 307, (formerly CMNS 307), Topics in Political and Social Communication
INTC 308, (formerly CMNS 308), Topics in Intercultural Communication
INTC 309, (formerly CMNS 309), Global Communication
INTC 310, (formerly CMNS 310), Discourse Analysis
RELC 311, (formerly CMNS 311), Topics in Relational Communication
RELC 312, Evolution and Communication
RELC 313, (formerly CMNS 313), Nonverbal Communication
RELC 314, (formerly CMNS 314), Family Communication
CMNS 315, Health Communication
ORGC 316, (formerly CMNS 316) Communication and Group Decision-Making
ORGC 317, (formerly CMNS 317) Topics in Group Communication
RELC 318, (formerly CMNS 318), Close Relationships
RELC 319, (formerly CMNS 319), The Dark Side of Personal Relationships
RELC 320, (formerly CMNS 320) Deceptive Communication
INTC 321, (formerly CMNS 321), Cultural and Symbolic Criticism
INTC 322, (formerly CMNS 322), Advanced Public Speaking
INTC 323, (formerly CMNS 323), Social Movements
INTC 324, (formerly CMNS 324), Culture of Consumption
INTC 325, (formerly CMNS 325) Environmental Communication Workshop (Promoting Sustainable Practices).
INTC 326, (formerly CMNS 326) Environmental Politics and Rhetoric

INTC 328, (formerly CMNS 328), History of Rhetoric and Communication
RELC 329, (formerly CMNS 329), Persuasion
INTC 330, (formerly CMNS 330), Topics in Performance
INTC 331, (formerly CMNS 331), Communication Fieldwork
CMNS 332 Topics in Communication Methodology
INTC 332, Topics in Intercultural Communication Methodology
ORGC 332, Topics in Organizational Communication Methodology
INTC 333, (formerly CMNS 333) Cultural Ways of Speaking
INTC 334, (formerly CMNS 334) Urban Communication
INTC 335, (formerly CMNS 335) Latino Communication, Culture, & Community
INTC 337, (formerly CMNS 337) Asian-American Media Representations
INTC 338, (formerly CMNS 338) Asian Culture and Communication
INTC 340, Legislating language
RELC 340, (formerly CMNS 340) Communicating & Dating
ORGC 350 (formerly CMNS 350), Communication and Socialization to Work
ORGC 352 (formerly CMNS 352), Communication and Corporate Culture
ORGC 353 (formerly CMNS 353), Communication and Organizational Change
ORGC 354 (formerly CMNS 354), Employment Interviewing
ORGC 355 (formerly CMNS 355), Conflict Management and Negotiation
ORGC 356 (formerly CMNS 356), Communication Consulting
ORGC 357 (formerly CMNS 357), Topics in Organizational Communication
ORGC 358 (formerly CMNS 358), Leadership and Team Building
CMNS 360 Relational, Group and Organizational Theory
INTC 361 (formerly CMNS 361), Gender and Communication
MCS 366 (formerly CMNS 366), Communication, Technology, & Society
INTC 367 (formerly CMN 367), Performance for Social Change
CMNS 392 Independent Study
INTC 392 Independent Study
ORGC 392 Independent Study
RELC 392 Independent Study
CMNS 393 Communication Practicum
INTC 393 Intercultural Communication Practicum
ORGC 393 Organizational Communication Practicum
RELC 393 Relational Communication Practicum
INTC 395 (formerly CMNS 395), Debate Practicum
CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship
CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics

College of Communication Electives

Students majoring in Communication Studies may take as many as three electives from any College of Communication offerings.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship or CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103), two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Latino Media and Communication Concentration

Students interested in pursuing a concentration in Latino Media and Communication may refer here for information about concentration requirements.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the bachelors degree in Communication Studies by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any courses offered by DePaul University.

Course Descriptions

CMN 101 Introduction to Human Communication

This core course is required of all majors in the College of Communication. The class provides an introduction to the field of relational, group, and organizational communication. Students become acquainted with the basic terms, concepts and theoretical perspectives used to examine communication in dyadic, group, and organizational contexts.

CMN 102 Introduction to Mass Communication

This course offers students a broad overview of the mass media (print, film, video, recorded music, radio, television and the internet) with a particular focus on how these media impact our everyday lives. Students will develop critical frameworks for understanding how power operates across the media spheres of production, circulation, representation and reception. Attention is placed on how the social categories of race, class, gender, sexuality, ethnicity, age and nationality inform each of these media spheres. The course also considers how recent developments in digital technologies, media convergence and globalization have transformed our media culture.

CMN 103 Intercultural Communication

This course is required for all majors in the College of Communication. The class explores issues pertaining to communication and culture. Here, we consider the important role of context (social/political, historical, and interpersonal) in cultural interactions. Specifically, we examine the complex relationship between culture and communication from three conceptual perspectives: the social/psychological, the interpretive, and the critical.

ORGC 201 (formerly CMNS 201), Business and Professional Communication

Employers demand strong communication and presentation skills. In order to compete effectively in the job market, students need to acquire and practice the written and oral communication skills needed to interview successfully. Furthermore, as a professional you will not only be expected to be a confident speaker, but also to organize and prepare clear, concise and interesting presentations. You will also need to communicate effectively while working as the member of a team or in other group contexts. In developing the knowledge, competencies and skills needed to communicate effectively in these and other contexts, this course will embrace opportunities for both critical thinking and applied problem solving.

INTC 205 (formerly CMNS 205), Communication, Culture, and Community

Examines the relationships among culture, communication, institutions, and public and private life. Students explore the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through service in community organizations. The course also fulfills the junior year experiential learning requirement through community based service learning.

INTC 206 Communicating Multicultural Identities

This course examines identity from a critical/post-structuralist position, approaching the notion of identity as a discursive production and negotiation within complex systems of power, privilege, and oppression. Together, we will examine the ways in which discourse influences our personal identity construction as well as the ways that it constructs our ideas about other identities (gender, race, sexuality, etc).

RELC 211 (formerly CMNS 211), Interpersonal Communication

An introduction to the factors that shape communication between two people. Topics include self-concept formation, perception, message formation, verbal and nonverbal communication, active listening, and defensiveness.

ORGC 212 (formerly CMNS 212), Small Group Communication

A survey of the variables operating in group interactions. Combines principles with practice through participation in small group experiences. Topics include group formation, group formats, organizational approaches, decision-making models, group observation and evaluation.

INTC 220 (formerly CMNS 220), Public Speaking

Introduction to the skills required in a variety of public speaking settings. Includes units on delivery, language, defining speech purposes and content, finding supporting material, organization, and audience analysis. Students will be required to present speeches. Background in basic writing and library skills is necessary.

INTC 230 (formerly CMNS 230), Performance of Literature

Introduction to the communication of literature through oral interpretation. Involves critical analyses of selected literary works and preparation for and delivery of short performances.

ORGC 251 (formerly CMNS 251), Organizational Communication

This course focuses on the role of communication in organizational life. Attention will be devoted to exploring how communication simultaneously shapes and is shaped by organizations. Topics include conflict and mediation, stress and social support, the supervisor-subordinate relationships, workplace diversity, organizational consultation and new communication technologies in organizations.

CMNS 290 Communication Studies Workshop

This course allows students to sample a range of hands on, practical offerings in Communication Studies that can enhance their knowledge and expertise. Students may take a maximum of 4 credit hours of CMNS 290 in the major, and a total of 8 credit hours. CMNS 290 is a 2 cr. hour class.

INTC 290 Intercultural Communication Workshop

This course allows students to sample a range of hands on, practical offerings in Intercultural Communication that can enhance their knowledge and expertise. Students may take a maximum of 4 credit hours of INTC 290 in the major, and a total of 8 credit hours. INTC 290 is a 2 cr. hour class.

ORGC 290 Organizational Communication Workshop

This course allows students to sample a range of hands on, practical offerings Organizational Communication that can enhance their knowledge and expertise. Students may take a maximum of 4 credit hours of ORGC 290 in the major, and a total of 8 credit hours. ORGC 290 is a 2 cr. hour class.

RELC 290 Relational Communication Workshop

This course allows students to sample a range of hands on, practical offerings in Relational Communication that can enhance their knowledge and expertise. Students may take a maximum of 4 credit hours of RELC 290 in the major, and a total of 8 credit hours. RELC 290 is a 2 cr. hour class.

CMNS 291, Research Methods

This course is an introduction to the study of communication through the observation and analysis of empirical (i.e. aspects of the observable world) data. It will stress how to form appropriate questions from the theories (or hunches, dreams etc.) and rigorously test these propositions (quantitatively and qualitatively) to see how well they correspond to the world outside ourselves. An added benefit of the course will be to show how to be a more informed judge of the claims of others. The format of the course is lecture/discussion.

CMNS 306, Topics in Presentation

Courses offer advanced analysis of presentational forms. Students will enact presentational theories in relational, small group, or public communication contexts.

INTC 307 (formerly CMNS 307), Topics in Social and Political Discourse

Examines intensively one or more issues in the Culture and Communication Track. The topics differ each term focusing on a particular area of discourse such as environmental communication, political communication, and sexuality and communication.

INTC 308 (formerly CMNS 308), Topics in Intercultural Communication

Examination of the application of linguistic and rhetorical theories to various specializations in cultural discourse. The course focuses each term on one particular area such as semiotics, language acquisition, or language and power.

INTC 309 (formerly CMNS 309), International/Global Communication

Focuses on the world of international/global news flow and media systems in a comparative manner. Emphasizes changes that have followed the modernization of the media, the impact of globalization on individual countries, attempts to preserve the cultural character of domestic media content in the face of increased amounts of imported products, and the effects of new communication technologies, particularly the Internet.

INTC 310 (formerly CMNS 310), Discourse Analysis

An analytical examination of the ways in which people locate meaning cooperate, coordinate, and find coherency in conversations and in other forms of discourse, both spoken and written. The class will analyze and disclose meanings hidden in public discourse.

RELC 311 (formerly CMNS 311), Topics in Interpersonal/Relational Communication

Explores specialized topic within the field of interpersonal communication. Past topics have included: emotions & communication, gender & its relation to interaction, the "social construction" of interpersonal realities, etc.

RELC 312 (formerly CMNS 312), Evolution and Communication

This seminar explores how communication, across a variety of topics, can be understood with respect to the theory of evolution. Specifically, this course examines how millions of years of human evolution influences how people interact in their personal and social relationships.

RELC 313 (formerly CMNS 313), Nonverbal Communication

This course surveys various conceptual areas generally subsumed under the broad rubric of nonverbal communication. Topics include: physical appearances, gestures, face and eye behavior, vocalics, proxemics, touch, time, environmental contexts as well as application of nonverbal behaviors to specific interpersonal communication contexts.

RELC 314 (formerly CMNS 314), Family Communication

This course surveys topics relevant to understanding communication phenomena in the setting of the family. Topics include: family systems, patterns, meaning, themes, roles and types, family life cycles, stressors and conflict, changing family forms and contexts.

CMNS 315, Health Communication

This course overviews the theory and practice of communication in the health care setting. Topics include the dynamics of doctor-patient interaction and the cursory nature of health care campaigns.

ORGC 316 (formerly CMNS 316), Communication and Group Decision-Making

Advanced undergraduate course in small group communication. Students develop skills and abilities in identifying various factors that contribute to the success and failure of group decision-making in organizational contexts. Class sessions will focus on theories, research, and practices in group processes, and their applications to issues in real life.

ORGC 317 (formerly CMNS 317), Topics in Group Communication

Examines selected topics in group communication processes. Topics may include group creativity, communicating in virtual teams, conflict in groups, and group facilitation.

RELC 318 (formerly CMNS 318), Close Relationships

This course examines the role of communication in the development, maintenance, and deterioration of romantic attachments. Topics include attraction, intimacy and self-disclosure, attachment beliefs, jealousy, satisfaction, commitment, trust, betrayal, conflict, autonomy, interdependence, etc.

RELC 319 (formerly CMNS 319), The Dark Side of Personal Relationships

This course explores the "dark side" of interpersonal communication by examining the growing literature on the troubling or problematic aspects of close relationships. Topics covered include relational dilemmas, relational control and dominance, hurtful messages, paradoxical communication, social predicaments, relational transgressions, privacy violations, physical abuse, verbal aggression, etc.

RELC 320 (formerly CMNS 320), Deceptive Communication

Explores the use of deceptive communication in social and personal relationships from a range of theoretical perspectives including ethics, evolutionary biology, linguistics, social and developmental psychology, and jurisprudence.

INTC 321 (formerly CMNS 321), Cultural and Symbolic Criticism

Introduction to the critical methodologies of rhetorical analysis. Students are instructed in ways to become more reflective consumers of discourse by examining how rhetoric instructs reality, shapes the social and political agenda and engages questions of ethics, power and persuasion. The course promotes a critical awareness of the role symbols play in influencing human perception, attitude, and action in a diverse culture.

INTC 322 (formerly CMNS 322), Advanced Public Speaking

Analyzes theories and develops skills required in persuasive speaking situations. This course is an extension of the public speaking class (CMN 220) and explores in greater detail than the first course the analysis of audiences, sources of resistance to persuasion, and appropriate logical and psychological strategies for persuasive speeches.

INTC 323 (formerly CMNS 323), Communication and Social Movements

This course examines the rhetoric of social movements throughout American History. As a rhetoric class, the focus is primarily on the symbolic creation of movements in order to provide background of the political and social events that gave rise to the movement. Using readings from a variety of sources, we will investigate the discursive construction of power as it relates to society and politics. The class will take a case-study approach to examining social movement rhetoric, exploring the discourse that has served to resist oppressive, or perceptively oppressive, systems.

INTC 324 (formerly CMNS 324), Culture of Consumption

Introduces students to the critique of our consumer culture. Teaches students how to be critical consumers and understand how to be critical consumers and understand how we consume lifestyles, images, aesthetics, and desire through our shopping patterns. Provides theoretical, observational, and critical tools that allow students to critique patterns of consumption, the production of culture through consumption, and how consumption is a means of communication.

INTC 325 (formerly CMNS 325 Environmental Communication Workshop), Promoting Sustainable Practices

Provides a foundation in the communication skills necessary for achieving conservation goals. Introduces communication approaches such as social marketing, citizen participation, public campaigns, and environmental interpretation that have proven effective in the work of conservation professionals.

INTC 326 (formerly CMNS 326), Environmental Politics and Rhetoric

Introduces students to a rhetorical perspective on environmental public discourse. Course also explores the relationship between rhetorically constituted ideas about nature and the development of political and social ideas, institutions, and practices that inform our understanding of the human place in the environment.

INTC 328 (formerly CMNS 328), History of Rhetoric and Communication

Offers an overview of historical foundations of the communication field. Examines how the formulations of rhetoric by various thinkers derived from cultural, religious, and political contexts shape human consciousness and communication patterns. Students read primary and secondary materials on classical rhetoric and rhetoric of diverse cultures. The course promotes an understanding and appreciation of antiquity and development of ideas over time in relation to current cultural and communicative patterns.

RELC 329 (formerly CMNS 329), Persuasion

Explores major theoretical assumptions of current persuasion research. Examines causes and effects of effective and ineffective persuasion. Analyzes persuasive skills and strategies for a variety of persuasion applications, e.g. political, interpersonal, intercultural, and advertising.

INTC 330 (formerly CMNS 330), Topics in Performance

Advanced study in performance focusing on a specific genre each quarter such as: Poetry, Fiction, Nonfiction, Drama or Chamber Theater. Other possibilities include: performing autobiography; life performances; ritual, ceremony, and storytelling; and radio and television performances.

INTC 331 (formerly CMNS 331), Communication Fieldwork

Provides students with experience conducting qualitative research, including data collection techniques, data coding and analysis, as well as interpretation of data and writing ethnographic reports. In addition to providing practical hands-on training in ethnographic research, this course explores the theory, ethics, and politics behind various qualitative research methodologies.

CMNS 332, Topics in Communication Methodology

Courses explore a range of qualitative and quantitative research strategies. Topics may include more specialized modes of gathering and assessing data, using new data technologies and software programs, and conducting communication studies.

INTC 332 Topics in Intercultural Communication Methodology

Courses that offer specialized training in intercultural communication methods.

ORGC 332 Topics in Organizational Communication Methodology

Courses that offer specialized training in organizational communication methods.

INTC 333 (formerly CMNS 333), Cultural Ways of Speaking

Explores how speakers reveal culture through their everyday interactions. This course focuses on speaking as an activity through which individuals identify themselves with communities of discourse, within the United States as well as across cultural groups. It provides students with experience in discovering diverse ways of speaking and codes concerning what it means to be a person, how people relate to each other, and how they view the world.

INTC 334 (formerly CMNS 334), Urban Communication

Examines relationships between material features of the city and symbolic representations of urban life (e.g., photography, film, songs, public discourse) with the goal of understanding the city as a site of communication. Special attention is paid to expressions of hope for and fear of the city.

INTC 335 (formerly CMNS 335), Latino Communication, Culture, & Community

Examines the relationships among Latino cultures, communication, institutions, and public and private life. Students explore the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through service in Latino community organizations. The course also fulfills the junior year experiential learning requirement through community based service learning.

INTC 337 (formerly CMNS 337), Asian American Media Representations

Critically examines how Asian Americans have been represented in historical and contemporary media texts. Students explore the social construction of Asian Americans from selected films, TV shows, and print media and how these media constructions have affected Asian Americans self-perceived identity and perpetuated stereotypes, prejudice, and racism against Asian Americans in the United States. The course takes an interdisciplinary approach in the analysis of the media images and explores issues of power, identity, race, gender, class, sexual orientation and the interaction of these factors in the representation of Asian Americans.

INTC 338 (formerly CMNS 338), Asian Culture and Communication

Reviews major Asian philosophical and religious traditions such as Hinduism, Confucianism, Taoism, and Buddhism and examines how these traditions influence and affect Asian cultures and communication behaviors, particularly communication among Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, and Asian Americans in various contexts.

INTC 340 Legislating Language

This course examines language legislation and rules at national and institutional levels. We explore the ideologies and the motivations that underlie such policies.

RELC 340 (formerly CMNS 340), Communicating & Dating

The goal of this course is provide students with a research-based understanding of the role of communication within dating relationships. Accordingly, this course traces the life-cycle of a dating relationship. Specifically, this course begins by examining initial interactions that are potentially romantic and could turn into dating interactions. Next, the course focuses on how people engage in dating relationships and the factors that influence relationships. Finally, the course concludes with what happens after dating (i.e., long term commitment/marriage, relational termination, or the death of a partner).

ORGC 350 (formerly CMNS 350), Communication and Socialization to Work

Examines how human beings move through the world of work, paying particular attention to the role communication plays in this process. Influences that help shape people's perceptions of work during youth and adolescence are reviewed, as are those that help individuals develop expectations about life in particular organizations prior to entry. In addition, the class focuses on new hire adjustment, the processes by which "rookies" gradually become "veterans" in the workplace, and covers voluntary and involuntary retirement.

ORGC 352 (formerly CMNS 352), Communication and Corporate Culture

Focuses on the communicative implications of such cultural elements as values, heroes, rites, rituals, symbolism and storytelling. Analyzes and presents ways of adapting to the diverse components of a culture.

ORGC 353 (formerly CMNS 353), Communication and Organizational Change

Explores the impact of change on the day to day work experience of organizational members. How culture, management philosophy and individual performances are influenced by change. Political, symbolic interactional, and human resource perspectives are explored.

ORGC 354 (formerly CMNS 354), Employment Interviewing

Studies theory and practice of interviewing. Course focuses each term on a particular interview application (journalistic, employment, research, etc.) and examines strategies appropriate for interviewer and interviewee. Covers planning, conducting and evaluating interviews as well as relevant legislation.

ORGC 355 (formerly CMNS 355), Conflict Management and Negotiation

Examines the theory and process of conflict in interpersonal and organizational contexts. Focuses upon the causes, types, and theories of conflicts as well as upon practical approaches to dispute resolution. Topics include: social-psychological as well as process perspectives of conflict; personal conflict style/s; conflict sources; destructive versus constructive interaction cycles; impression management; conflict escalation or diminishment; and resolution strategies.

ORGC 356 (formerly CMNS 356), Communication Consulting

Examines how to partner with a client to facilitate constructive organizational change and behavioral growth in the workplace. Focuses on contemporary consulting through case studies. Previous courses in organizational, small group, or interpersonal communication are suggested.

ORGC 357 (formerly CMNS 357), Special Topics in Organizational Communication

Topics covered in this course might include: communication and customer service, assessment and intervention in organizations, comparative management, democratic participation in organizations, gender in the workplace, etc.

ORGC 358 (formerly CMNS 358), Leadership and Team Building

This course will introduce the student to the theory and practice of self-managed work teams. This approach to group dynamics has many short term and long term benefits, such as solving problems across organizational boundaries or in changing the nature of work and supervision itself.

CMNS 360, Relational, Group, and Organizational Theory

This course surveys relevant theoretical developments in the field of communication. While exploring the major theoretical paradigms that inform and guide the study of human communication, students receive insight into the significance and meaning of their own day-to-day communication activities and discover how theories provide complementary and viable explanations for analyzing as well as assessing the impact of communication in relational, group and organizational contexts.

INTC 361 (formerly CMNS 361), Gender and Communication

A review of the differences in communication patterns between women and men. Topics covered include language and language usage differences, interaction patterns, gender social movements, and perceptions of the sexes generated through language and communication.

MCS 366 (formerly CMNS 366), Communication, Technology and Society

Survey of a variety of contemporary and historical issues related to the introduction and diffusion of communication technologies in society. Especially examines how new technologies, particularly the Internet, are transforming the communication landscape. Emphasis on issues of intellectual property, surveillance, privacy, regulation, message construction, and access will be central to this course.

INTC 367 (formerly CMNS 367), Performance for Social Change

This is an experiential field experience that examines the role of performance in social activism. Student projects will identify a social issue of critical concerns and devise a performative response.

CMNS 392, Independent Study

1-4 credit hours.

INTC 392, Independent Study

1-4 credit hours.

ORGC 392, Independent Study

1-4 credit hours.

RELC 392, Independent Study

1-4 credit hours.

CMNS 393, Communication Practicum

Structured and supervised student participation in collegiate debating, radio production or group presentations for various audiences. Includes practical experience in research, rehearsal and performance. Students may take a maximum of 2 credit hours in one quarter, 4 credit hours in the major, and 8 total credit hours.

INTC 393, Intercultural Communication Practicum

Structured and supervised student participation in practical activities in intercultural and performative contexts. Includes practical experience in research, rehearsal and performance. Students may take a maximum of 2 credit hours in one quarter, 4 credit hours in the major, and 8 total credit hours.

ORGC 393, Organizational Communication Practicum

Structured and supervised student participation in practical activities in group and organizational contexts. Includes practical experience in research, training or consultative activities. Students may take a maximum of 2 credit hours in one quarter, 4 credit hours in the major, and 8 total credit hours.

RELC 393, Relational Communication Practicum

Structured and supervised student participation in practical activities in relational contexts. Includes practical experience in research, training or consultative activities. Students may take a maximum of 2 credit hours in one quarter, 4 credit hours in the major, and 8 total credit hours.

CMNS 395, Debate Practicum

This practicum centers on developing students' skills in debate and public discourse.

INTC 395 (formerly CMNS 395), Debate Practicum

This practicum centers on developing students skills in debate and public discourse. Participation in forensic activities outside of the class (tournaments, public debates, etc.) is an expectation. This course can be taken a total of 6 times. 8 credit hours can count towards the INTC and CMNS majors.

CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship

Placement of students in business, industry, or not-for-profit major specific internships. Opportunities in advertising, public relations, journalism, radio and television, museums and philanthropic outreach organizations. Program open to communication majors and minors who meet eligibility requirements.

CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics

This course is for students who wish to receive academic credit for a second or third internship. Must be a Communication major or minor who has completed CMN 394 or ISP250 and meets eligibility requirements. Must be taken concurrently with an internship. Topics include building and managing a communication career, effective networking, and leadership development.

Bachelor of Arts in Journalism

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Degree Programs ▢ Bachelor of Arts in Journalism

Liberal Studies Requirements

Core Requirements

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Degree Programs ▢ Bachelor of Arts in Journalism ▢ Liberal Studies Requirements

Liberal Studies Requirements

First Year Program
Chicago Quarter	LSP 110 or LSP 111
Focal Point	LSP 112
Writing	WRD 103 and WRD 104
Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy	LSP 120 and LSP 121 (Note: This proficiency can be met through exams at QRC .)
Sophomore Year
Multiculturalism in the US	LSP 200
Junior Year
Experiential Learning	Required
Senior Year
Capstone	Required

Learning Domains
Arts and Literature (AL)	2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)	2 Courses Required
Scientific Inquiry (SI)	3 Courses Required (Note : One must be Lab)
Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)	2 Courses Required
Religious Dimensions (RD)	2 Courses Required
Understanding the Past (UP)	2 Courses Required

Note: Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy : All Communication students must complete the placement exam for Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy. Students must complete the one course into which they place (LSP 120 or LSP 121). Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Effective Summer 2010, changes were made to the liberal studies domain requirements allowing for more flexibility. Current students may also benefit from the less restrictive LSP domain requirements. Please note that the change is reflected in this liberal studies requirement grid.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies □ Degree Programs □ Bachelor of Arts in Journalism □ Core Requirements

Core Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Journalism

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism. The College of Communication Journalism faculty have years of professional experience and are dedicated to encouraging the intellectual development of students, while preparing them with the content mastery they'll need in serving citizens with information that makes democracy and personal empowerment possible. Students will gain specialized instruction in news gathering and presentation for print, broadcast, and online media. Production facilities include Mac and PC labs, a converged studio-control room, high end editing suites, and smart classrooms. The journalism program relies heavily on DePaul's long partnership with Chicago's professional community.

The Journalism Full-Time Faculty

RICK BROWN,
Instructor and Good Day DePaul Advisor
University of Missouri

JASON MARTIN, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Indiana

BRUCE EVENSEN, Ph.D.,
Professor,
University of Wisconsin

MARLA KRAUSE, M.A.,
Instructor and DePaulia Advisor,
University of Chicago

LISA PECOT-HEBERT, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Georgia

LOU RUTIGLIANO, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Texas

MICHAEL REILLEY, M.A.,
Instructor and Society of Professional Journalists Advisor
Northwestern University

HAI TRAN, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
University of North Carolina

MARGARET RAMIREZ, M.I.A.,

Instructor

Columbia University

Degree Program Requirements

The Journalism Major

The Bachelor of Arts in Journalism consists of the three core courses required of all College of Communication students; two courses, JOUR 275: Introduction to Journalism and JOUR 278 News Reporting (formerly Advanced Reporting JOUR 378) are required of all Journalism majors; a minimum of six courses from the list of Journalism course offerings; and a maximum of two electives taken within the College of Communication. All Journalism majors must complete a total of 13 classes, or 52 credit hours.

Common Core

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101, Introduction to Human Communication
- CMN 102 (formerly CMN 110), Introduction to Mass Communication
- CMN 103 (formerly CMN 203), Intercultural Communication

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Program Requirement & Course Offerings in Journalism

Journalism majors must take JOUR 275 (formerly CMN 275) Introduction to Journalism and JOUR 278 News Reporting (formerly JOUR 378, Advanced Reporting), plus a minimum of six of the courses listed below:

- JOUR 240 (formerly CMN 240), Broadcast Journalism
- JOUR 245 (formerly CMN 245), News Editing
- JOUR 276 (formerly CMN 276), Photojournalism
- JOUR 278 News Reporting
- JOUR 279 (formerly CMN 279), Feature Writing
- JOUR 290 Journalism Workshop
- JOUR 317 Experiential Learning
- JOUR 330, Writing for Broadcast
- JOUR 343 (formerly CMN 343), Journalism and the American Experience
- JOUR 350, Radio News
- JOUR 361, Journalism Law and Ethics
- JOUR 362 (formerly CMN 362), The Press and the Presidency
- JOUR 363 (formerly CMN 363), Online Journalism I
- JOUR 364 (formerly CMN 364), Investigative Reporting
- JOUR 365 (formerly CMN 365), Television News I
- JOUR 366, Magazine Reporting
- JOUR 367, International Reporting

- JOUR 368, Sports Reporting
- JOUR 374 (formerly CMN 374), Community Journalism
- JOUR 377 (formerly CMN 377), Journalism Topics
- JOUR 380, Good Day DePaul
- JOUR 383, Online Journalism II
- JOUR 385, Television News II
- JOUR 393, Journalism Practicum
- CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship
- CMN 395: Communication Internship Special Topics

College of Communication Electives

Students majoring in Journalism may take as many as two electives from any College of Communication offerings, or from the following Digital Cinema courses: DC 120, Video Editing; DC 220 Editing I; DC 210 Production I; and DC 271 Introduction to Television Production.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 294, Communication Internship or CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 294, or CMN 394, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103) two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Latino Media and Communication Concentration

Students interested in pursuing a concentration in Latino Media and Communication may refer here for information about concentration requirements.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the bachelors degree in Journalism by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any courses offered by DePaul University.

Course Descriptions

CMN 101 Introduction to Human Communication

This core course is required of all majors in the College of Communication. The class provides an introduction to the field of relational, group, and organizational communication. Students become acquainted with the basic terms, concepts and theoretical perspectives used to examine communication in dyadic, group, and organizational contexts.

CMN 102 Introduction to Mass Communication (formerly CMN 110)

This course offers students a broad overview of the mass media (print, film, video, recorded music, radio, television and the internet) with a particular focus on how these media impact our everyday lives. Students will develop critical frameworks for understanding how power operates across the media spheres of production, circulation, representation and reception. Attention is placed on how the social categories of race, class, gender, sexuality, ethnicity, age and nationality inform each of these media spheres. The course also considers how recent developments in digital technologies, media convergence and globalization have transformed our media culture.

CMN 103 Intercultural Communication (formerly CMN 203)

This course is required is required for all majors in the College of Communication. The class explores issues pertaining to communication and culture. Here, we consider the important role of context (social/political, historical, and interpersonal) in cultural interactions. Specifically, we examine the complex relationship between culture and communication from three conceptual perspectives: the social/psychological, the interpretive, and the critical.

JOUR 240 Broadcast Journalism

This course teaches students the preparation and presentation skills needed in broadcast journalism. It is a studio performance course in which students research, write, and then anchor news and public affairs reports. The course teaches basic strategies in how to organize and present material for broadcast. Students complete the course with a heightened self-awareness of what it takes to be a professional in studio settings and in public presentations. (Prereq: JOUR 275; JOUR 278; JOUR 330).

JOUR 245 News Editing

Behind every news story worth reading or watching is a highly skilled news editor, whose careful work helps to provide the clarity and emotional force that makes for memorable journalism. This course teaches students those skills. It introduces them to the many roles news editors play from choosing what stories will be written to how theyre presented. In the online world, the news editor plays an increasingly important role in the production of stories that encourage interactivity with readers and the development of value-added content utilizing multimedia platforms. (Prereq: JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 275 Introduction to Journalism

This course introduces students to the rapidly changing field of journalism and gives them a firm grounding in the researching, interviewing, writing, and rewriting skills they'll need to be successful in the profession. The course teaches students how to organize information and present it in a thoughtful, clear narrative under deadline. Students will explore the impact new technologies are having on news gathering and dissemination and how the professional values and business imperatives of news organizations influence what stories are reported and how they're reported.

JOUR 276 Photojournalism

This course is designed to introduce students to photography as a means of telling stories and revealing important aspects of the human condition. Photography is both an art and science and in the hands of a skilled photojournalist can have a profound effect in fulfilling the social responsibility of journalists to society. Students will learn the techniques and ethics of picture-taking and will develop an appreciation for photojournalism's proud past and digital future. No previous photographic experience is assumed or required for this class. Students taking the course will develop photo-essay projects that will become strong portfolio pieces.

JOUR 278 News Reporting

This course is designed to go beyond the inverted pyramid of basic news writing and focus on some of the sophisticated newsgathering techniques used by journalists. Story generation techniques will be examined along with interviewing techniques. The course will also explore how databases and documents can enhance a story, including the use of surveys, field experiments and participant observation. (PREREQ: JOUR 275)

JOUR 279 Feature Writing

Feature stories tend to emphasize human interest and are filled with the descriptive detail that connects readers and viewers to lived experiences. Students will be introduced to the process of how news organizations identify good feature story opportunities, and how reporters proceed from an idea to a finely crafted feature story. Students will develop the critical skills of personal observation that is behind successful feature writing. At the heart of this process is intellectual curiosity, which connects the experience of an individual or group to individuals who will read your work. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 290 Journalism Workshop (Variable Topics)

This course allows students to sample a range of hands on, practical offerings in journalism that can enhance their knowledge and expertise. Workshop topics can include video camera basics, non-linear editing with Final Cut Pro news print design (including InDesign, Photoshop, Illustrator), and online editing tools (including Word Press). Students may take a maximum of 4 credit hours of JOUR 290 in the major, and a total of 8 credit hours.

JOUR 317 Experiential Learning

Students learn advanced reporting techniques while developing projects under the direction of a faculty supervisor. This course is designed to take learning out of the classroom and enables students to develop portfolio pieces while gaining critical real world experiences in reporting. (PREREQ(S): Instructor Permission Required).

JOUR 330 Writing for Broadcast

This course introduces students to the writing and formatting requirements of broadcast journalists. Part of this instruction is to give students an understanding of how writing for broadcast differs from writing for print and the awareness it takes to write copy that supports and strengthens the visuals that viewers will be watching. Strong writing is the backbone of broadcast journalism, and this course gives students a firm foundation in the writing skills that produce broadcast stories worth watching. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 343 Journalism and the American Experience

This course examines the significance that journalism has had in shaping the American experience and the difference that it has made in the evolution of our national history and culture. Particular attention is paid to major developments in the American experience and the role that journalists have played not only in reporting but in shaping those events, including the American Revolution, the Civil War, and America's encounter with urbanization, industrialization, and modernity. Also analyzed is the impact of technology ---the telegraph, broadcasting, cable, satellite, and the internet---on news gathering.

JOUR 350 Radio News

Nowhere has the rise of new technologies had a greater impact than in radio reporting. This course gives students opportunities to stream their stories through field and studio productions that connect listeners within communities and around the world. Students will be trained in writing for the ear, and the unique local and international possibilities of radio reporting. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 361 Journalism Law and Ethics

This course examines the unique role of the press in providing the information that makes democracy possible. Students will learn the ethical and legal obligations of the reporter and news organizations and the impact that new technologies are having on news gathering and dissemination. The course aims at enhancing student understanding of the social responsibility of journalists in the public life of the nation and its citizens.

JOUR 362 The Press and the Presidency

The purpose of this class is to give students an understanding of the current and historic relationship between the press and the American presidency. Students will analyze conditions in peace and war that lead to cooperative or adversarial press-presidential relations. Particular attention will be paid to the role of the press in presidential campaigns, in the agenda-setting function of the press, and the part it plays in forming public opinion.

JOUR 363 Online Journalism

This course equips students with the storytelling tools they'll need to add value to their reporting for online readers. Students will be introduced to the techniques of non-linear story design that are increasingly necessary in the digital world of journalism. Final projects will include in-depth reporting told through multimedia. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 364 Investigative Reporting

This course explores the methods, strategies, and sources that are deployed in in-depth investigative journalism as well as its social and policy impact. Students will learn how to use public records, documents and interviews to develop stories that help shape public opinion and policymaking on major urban issues of our time. Students will work individually and in teams in acquiring information from archives, agencies, community leaders, and public officials that is in the best tradition of the social responsibility of the press. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 365 Television News

This course teaches students how to produce television news stories. The students will write and produce story packages that include stand-up reports, interviews, and voice-overs. Student will rotate between assignments---learning how to shoot video, run audio, edit, interview, research, and report---news stories worth knowing. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278 JOUR 330).

JOUR 366 Magazine Reporting

The digital world of reporting and editing has created unparalleled opportunities to reach specific readers with targeted stories. This course introduces students to the opportunities of magazine writing and the strategies used by magazine writers. Writing assignments will strengthen a students grasp of the resources available to modern magazine writers and the techniques of research and interviewing that are the basis of skilled storytelling. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 367 International Reporting

This course analyzes the impact new technologies are having on foreign correspondents and international reporting. The digital revolution is having a profound effect on the ability of news makers and organizations to compete with governments in worldwide information flows. Access to information has made citizens more inter-dependent while creating extraordinary opportunities for journalists to tell stories that increase the understanding and enlarge the imagination of their readers. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 368 Sports Reporting

Sports reporting is a go-to destination for online, print, and broadcast consumers of sports information. This course gives students an understanding of the social and cultural significance of sports. It trains them to look for themes and details that go beyond the simple score of a contest to the symbolic importance of athletics in the post-modern experience. Students will complete the course with a new appreciation for what makes for strong sports reporting and what accounts for its unique hold on the popular imagination. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 374 Community Journalism

One of the largest areas of readership growth and jobs in journalism is professionally delivering community news. This course focuses on the unique opportunities of serving citizens through reporting that captures the concerns and triumphs of diverse urban and suburban communities. It enables reporters to develop sources and report on beats of real interest to a wide readership. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 377 Journalism Topics

This course allows students to sample a range of topical offerings in journalism that have included press law and ethics, arts and entertainment reporting, business and finance reporting, science and technology reporting, health and medicine reporting, tabloid journalism, war reporting, and reporting religion and moral issues. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278).

JOUR 380 Reporting for Good Day DePaul

This course will give students extensive experience doing on-air reporting for the DePaul student television news program, Good Day DePaul. Reporters will cover breaking news stories, features, and serious enterprise stories. Students must have experience shooting in the field and editing in Final Cut Pro, either through previous television news courses at DePaul, or from other work. Students will be permitted to take this course in two different quarters. (PREREQ: JOUR 365).

JOUR 383 Online Journalism II

This course builds on what students learned in Online Journalism I in news gathering and dissemination. Particular attention is paid to the incorporation of digital video and sound in reporting. A final project will include the development of a website made up of stories and sections that use interactivity and multimedia platforms to encourage citizen participation in the process of reporting. (PREREQ: JOUR 363).

JOUR 385, Television News II

Television News II builds on the knowledge students have gained in our introductory Television News class in producing news packages for broadcast. Students in this course will develop longer format feature pieces that combine skills in writing, reporting, shooting, narration, editing, and producing. The best of this work should serve as portfolio pieces for students considering careers in broadcasting and related industries. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 330; JOUR 365).

JOUR 390, Writing For the DePaulia

This course is designed for the serious journalism student who wants on-deadline experience writing for The DePaulia newspaper and web site. Students will cover beats of interest to the DePaul community throughout the quarter and also will receive assignments from DePaulia editors. Stories and beats can be as varied as campus news, sports, the arts or news in the Lincoln Park and South Loop communities. Students may repeat the course once for credit. (PREREQ(S): JOUR 275; JOUR 278 or consent of instructor. Not available for DePaulia editors.)

JOUR 399, Independent Study

1-4 credit hours.

CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship

Placement of students in business, industry, or not-for-profit major specific internships. Opportunities in advertising, public relations, journalism, radio and television, museums and philanthropic outreach organizations. Program open to communication majors and minors who meet eligibility requirements.

CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics

This course is for students who wish to receive academic credit for a second or third internship. Must be a Communication major or minor who has completed CMN 394 or ISP250 and meets eligibility requirements. Must be taken concurrently with an internship. Topics include building and managing a communication career, effective networking, and leadership development.

Bachelor of Arts in Public Relations and Advertising

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies □ Degree Programs □ Bachelor of Arts in Public Relations and Advertising

Liberal Studies Requirements

Core Requirements

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies □ Degree Programs □ Bachelor of Arts in Public Relations and Advertising □ Liberal Studies Requirements

Liberal Studies Requirements

First Year Program
Chicago Quarter	LSP 110 or LSP 111
Focal Point	LSP 112
Writing	WRD 103 and WRD 104
Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy	LSP 120 and LSP 121 (Note: This proficiency can be met through exams at QRC .)
Sophomore Year
Multiculturalism in the US	LSP 200
Junior Year
Experiential Learning	Required
Senior Year
Capstone	Required
Learning Domains
Arts and Literature (AL)	2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)	2 Courses Required
Scientific Inquiry (SI)	3 Courses Required (Note : One must be Lab)
Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)	2 Courses Required
Religious Dimensions (RD)	2 Courses Required
Understanding the Past (UP)	2 Courses Required

Note: Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy : All Communication students must complete the placement exam for Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy. Students must complete the one course into which they place (LSP 120 or LSP 121). Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Effective Summer 2010, changes were made to the liberal studies domain requirements allowing for more flexibility. Current students may also benefit from the less restrictive LSP domain requirements. Please note that the change is reflected in this liberal studies requirement grid.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies □ Degree Programs □ Bachelor of Arts in Public Relations and Advertising □ Core Requirements

Core Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Public Relations and Advertising

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Public Relations and Advertising. The program examines theories and practices in the related fields of public relations and advertising, and considers advertising and public relations processes, products and effects from cultural, ethical, organizational, historical, creative and methodological perspectives. Students in Public Relations and Advertising studies learn to think critically and analytically, to develop ideas clearly, and to speak and write effectively. Within the broad context of human communication and the liberal arts, students explore the relationship of public relations and advertising activities to other aspects of human endeavor.

Graduates are prepared for entry level positions within the public and private sectors, or for continuing their education in academic or professional graduate programs.

The Public Relations and Advertising Full-Time Faculty

DANIEL AZZARO, M.B.A.
Instructor
Fordham University

CRISTINA BENITEZ, M.A.,
Visiting Instructor
Furman University

CAROLYN BRONSTEIN, PH.D.,
Associate Professor
University of Wisconsin Madison

SHU-CHUAN (KELLY) CHU, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
University of Texas, Austin

RON CULP, B.S.
Professional Graduate Director, Instructor
Indiana State University

YEUSEUNG KIM, M.A.,
Instructor,
University of Florida

TERESA MASTIN, PH.D.,
Associate Professor
Michigan State University

JIM MOTZER, B.A.
Instructor
University of Iowa

MATTHEW RAGAS, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
University of Florida

JILL O'MAHONY STEWART, M.S., M.A.
Instructor
Boston University, DePaul University

DANIEL WINDELS, M.A.
Instructor
University of Texas, Austin

KASEY WINDELS, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Texas, Austin

The Public Relations and Advertising Major

In addition to the three core College of Communication courses, students take five required classes, three Public Relations and Advertising electives, and two additional electives from the College of Communication. All Public Relations and Advertising majors must complete a total of 13 classes, or 52 credit hours.

Common Core

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

- CMN 101, Introduction to Human Communication
- CMN 102 (formerly CMN 110), Introduction to Mass Communication
- CMN 103 (formerly CMN 203), Intercultural Communication

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Program Requirements

All Public Relations and Advertising majors must fulfill the following five requirements:

- Either PRAD 244 (formerly CMN 244), Principles of Advertising, or PRAD 255 (formerly CMN 255), Public Relations
- PRAD 256 (formerly CMN 256), Writing for Public Relations and Advertising
- PRAD 291 (formerly CMN 271; CMNS 291), Research Methods for the PRAD Professional
- Either PRAD 334 (formerly CMN 334), Ethics in Public Relations and Advertising, or PRAD 335 (formerly CMN 335), Advertising and Society
- Either PRAD 336, Advertising Campaigns, or PRAD 337 (formerly CMN 337), Public Relations Campaigns, or PRAD 339, Integrated Communication Campaigns.

Students select three additional courses from:

- PRAD 244 (formerly CMN 244), Principles of Advertising
- PRAD 255 (formerly CMN 255), Public Relations
- PRAD 290 Public Relations and Advertising Workshop (Variable Topics)
- PRAD 320 Event Planning
- PRAD 334 (formerly CMN 334), Ethics in Public Relations and Advertising
- PRAD 335 (formerly CMN 335), Advertising and Society
- PRAD 336 Advertising Campaigns
- PRAD 337 (formerly CMN 337), Public Relations Campaigns
- PRAD 338 (formerly CMN 338), Healthcare Public Relations
- PRAD 339 Integrated Communication Campaigns
- PRAD 350 Account Planning
- PRAD 351 Copywriting
- PRAD 352 Digital Advertising
- PRAD 355 Consumer Promotion and Activation
- PRAD 357 Advertising Portfolio I
- PRAD 361 Account Planning and Consumer Insights for Latino Markets
- PRAD 362 Latino Strategic Communication Campaigns
- PRAD 375 (formerly CMN 375), Communication Law
- PRAD 376, Crisis Communication
- PRAD 377, Marketing Public Relations
- PRAD 378, Creativity in Advertising
- PRAD 379, Advertising Media Planning
- PRAD 380, Political Communication
- PRAD 381, Advertising and Children
- PRAD 382, Nonprofit Public Relations
- PRAD 391 (formerly CMN 391), Special Topics in Public Relations
- PRAD 392: Special Topics in Advertising
- PRAD 393 Special Topics in Public Relations and Advertising
- PRAD 395 Special Topics in Public Relations and Advertising Practicum
- CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship
- CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics
- CMNS 220 Public Speaking
- CMNS 395 Debate Practicum

College of Communication Electives

Students majoring in Public Relations and Advertising may take as many as two electives from any College of Communication offerings. Students should consult their advisors regarding courses offered in the current College of Communication course schedule particularly relevant for Public Relations and Advertising Studies.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103) two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Latino Media and Communication Concentration

Students interested in pursuing a concentration in Latino Media and Communication may refer here for information about concentration requirements.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the bachelors degree in Public Relations and Advertising by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any courses offered by DePaul University.

Course Descriptions

PRAD 244 Principles of Advertising

This foundational course examines the principles, practices, applications and standards of advertising in multiple contexts, both from the perspectives of the practitioner and the consumer. The course places particular emphasis on strategic thinking in all aspects of marketing communication.

PRAD 255 Principles of Public Relations

This introduction to public relations traces the development of public relations industries and practices. Students are introduced to theories and principles of public relations, along with the roles and responsibilities of professionals working in public relations and related disciplines. Students also examine industry regulations, societal implications, and strategic planning processes associated with public relations.

PRAD 256 Writing For Public Relations and Advertising

This class provides students the opportunity to apply public relations and advertising theories and principles to the development of media materials. This course familiarizes students with various forms of persuasive writing and requires them to develop a writing portfolio that demonstrates their ability to write for diverse audiences. Assignments include writing plans, news media kits, speeches, and executions in various media. Prerequisite(s): PRAD 244 or PRAD 255

PRAD 290 Public Relations and Advertising Workshop (Variable Topics)

This course allows students to sample a range of hands on, practical offerings in public relations and advertising that can enhance their knowledge and expertise. Workshop topics can include SEO/SEM, media sales and buying, focus group moderating, and Adobe Creative Suite (InDesign, Photoshop, Illustrator), among others. Students may take a maximum of 4 courses of PRAD 290 in the major, and a total of 8 credit hours.

PRAD 291 Research Methods for the PRAD Professional

Research is critical to any advertising or public relations campaign. This course introduces students to the uses and applications of research in the fields of public relations and advertising. The goal is to provide future practitioners with information needed to commission and apply research to their work problems in the industry. Students will learn to recognize valid and reliable research and to utilize this data in decision making for their agencies or clients. Students will learn to form appropriate questions, select and develop appropriate methods (qualitative and quantitative), and analyze the data for unique consumer insights. Students learn to develop research that ensures messages are able to meet the strategic needs of their clients and agencies. Prerequisite(s): PRAD 244 or 255.

PRAD 320 Event Planning

This course aims to provide students with the occupational, technical and interpersonal skills necessary to "survive and thrive" in the special event industry. In addition to specific content knowledge, student will develop cross-cultural awareness, global understanding and communication skills as they relate to the event industry as a whole. The course will prepare students for a variety of options: pursuit of employment in the special events industry, professional development for those already employed in the field and general knowledge for those interested in the special events field. The purpose of this course is to acquire an in-depth knowledge about the specialized field of event planning, and to become familiar with management techniques and strategies required for successful planning, promotion, implementation and evaluation of special events.

PRAD 334 Ethics in Public Relations and Advertising

This course explores ethical issues of public relations and advertising from both theoretical and practical perspectives. Students learn the professional and social responsibilities of Public Relations and Advertising professionals and prevailing norms in public relations, advertising, and related disciplines. Prerequisite(s): PRAD 244 or PRAD 255.

PRAD 335 Advertising and Society

This course challenges students to think critically about the social effect of advertising with regard to its role in the production and maintenance of consumer culture and formation of public opinion. Students read widely from a body of social criticism concerned with practices that may diminish democracy and endanger our collective public life. This course asks future practitioners to confront issues and abuses of advertising and to understand the negative social consequences that can result. Prerequisite(s): PRAD 244 or PRAD 255.

PRAD 336 Advertising Campaigns

This class is designed to expose students to the use and development of advertising strategies and techniques in a variety of product and service categories. Through case studies students examine contemporary examples of successful advertising programs and campaigns and through implementation projects discover how practitioners function within marketing communication organizations. Prerequisite: PRAD 244, PRAD 256, CMNS 291. (Formerly CMN 337 Public Communication Campaigns, check with instructor if content covered matches content taken in CMN 337).

PRAD 337 Public Relations Campaigns

The class is designed to expose students to the use and development of public relations strategies and techniques in a variety of functions, including community relations, employee relations, government relations, and media relations. Through case studies students examine contemporary examples of successful public relations programs and campaigns and through implementation projects discover how practitioners function as intermediates between organizations and their publics. (Formerly CMN 337 Public Communication Campaigns, check with instructor if content covered matches content taken in CMN 337). Successful completion of PRAD 255; PRAD 256; and CMNS 291 is required prior to entrance to any PRAD campaigns course.

PRAD 338 Healthcare and Public Relations

This course familiarizes students with the major issues and problems in the United States healthcare system. Students will explore current issues in health policy and the politics of health from a public relations perspective. Each student will be responsible for assuming the role of a public relations director for a health organization in the public or private sector. Prerequisite(s): PRAD 244 or PRAD 255.

PRAD 339 Integrated Communication Campaigns

This class is designed to expose students to the use and development of public integrated marketing communication strategies and techniques in a variety of product and service categories. Through case studies students examine contemporary examples of successful integrated marketing communication programs and campaigns and through implementation projects discover how integrated marketing communication practitioners function within marketing communication organizations. (Formerly CMN 337 Public Communication Campaigns, check with instructor if content covered matches content taken in CMN 337). Successful completion of PRAD 244 or 255; PRAD 256; and CMNS 291 is required prior to entrance to any PRAD campaigns course.

PRAD 350, Account Planning

The account planner represents the voice of the consumer in the advertising process. This course will examine the history of account planning and its relationship within advertising agencies to creative development. Special emphasis will be placed on the qualitative and ethnographic research techniques used by planners, and the role that curiosity and empathy play in understanding different consumer audiences.

Prerequisite: PRAD 244

PRAD 351, Copywriting

Students will learn the basics of advertising copywriting, from the basics of strategy to the creation of ads for the new digital world. The focus of the class will be to learn to write for all media, new and old, as well as the various marketing communication disciplines (including promotion, direct). Prerequisite(s): PRAD 244

PRAD 352, Digital Advertising

This course is designed to provide students with an introduction to the dynamic field of digital advertising. The emergence of new media technologies has dramatically changed the ways and strategies for communicating with and engaging consumers. This course provides conceptual basis of digital advertising that separates digital advertising from traditional advertising. This course helps students understand how the digital advertising industry is evolving with the new media technologies and addresses a wide variety of digital advertising through a practical and theoretical framework. Issues will include social media, user-generated content, online community, mobile advertising, and permission marketing, among others. Prerequisite: PRAD 244.

PRAD 355: Consumer Promotion and Activation

Students will learn about today's sales promotion industry, focusing on the strategies and tools used to get

consumers to act. This includes the basic tools of promotion sweepstakes, contests and loyalty as well as how sports sponsorships, cause marketing and the entertainment world are used in consumer promotion. The course also covers the difference in communication at the retail level, including the new world of shopper marketing. Prerequisite(s): PRAD 244

PRAD 357, Advertising Portfolio I

This advanced-level course is designed to provide students with hands-on knowledge of what it takes to succeed as a copywriter or art director in today's advertising industry. This course really focuses on the process of generating great ideas that translate into strategic and memorable advertising campaigns. Students learn about the importance of a strong selling proposition, about theories of the creative process, and about idea generation techniques. The course places particular emphasis on the finished campaign execution, as students gain practical knowledge in creative advertising. It all culminates in portfolio critique, where industry creatives come in to evaluate students' work. Prerequisite: PRAD 244.

PRAD 361, Account Planning and Consumer Insights for Latino Markets

This course encompasses both the similarities and differences of Latino consumers in the U.S. and explores the differences among the unique Latino cultures, their media habits and the effectiveness of using various promotional tools to affect their consumer behavior. The account planner represents the voice of the consumer in the advertising process. This course will examine the role of account planning and its relationship within advertising agencies to creative development. Special emphasis will be placed on the qualitative and ethnographic research techniques used by planners, and the role that curiosity and empathy play in understanding different Latino consumer audiences to gain insight about these groups' motivations and behaviors. Prerequisite: PRAD 244.

PRAD 362, Latino Strategic Communication Campaigns

Focuses on how to effectively target messages to Latino populations in ways that move beyond stereotypic and simplistic models of Latino audiences. Emphasis on developing culturally relevant integrated campaigns that incorporate appreciation of the diversity of Latino audiences. Students learn creative strategies for dialoguing with Latino consumers, customers, stakeholders, and influencers to develop public relations and advertising messaging in both the commercial and non-profit sector. Distinctive characteristics of the Latino population are considered, along with the rich diversity of these communities. Consideration given to effective use of new media and strategic decisions about communicating in English versus Spanish. Successful completion of PRAD 244 or 255; PRAD 256; and CMNS/PRAD 291 is required prior to entrance to any PRAD campaigns course.

PRAD 375, Communication Law

This course is designed to provide students with an introduction to the portions of U.S. Law that defines the scope of First Amendment protection for communication activities. The goal of the course is to help students understand legal issues important to professionals in the media-related fields of advertising, journalism, public relations and other communication specialties. The course helps students understand both their rights to communicate in political and commercial environment and the restrictions permitted on certain communication activities. Prerequisite(s): PRAD 244 or PRAD 255.

PRAD 376, Crisis Communication

This course examines how nonprofit, government and corporate organizations can effectively manage crises. Topics covered include: the nature of organizational crises; effective crisis communication planning, response and recovery; managing relationships with the community, government, and media during crises; and the potential ethical and legal problems crisis communicators face. Emphasis will be placed on analyzing current crisis case studies and learning how to plan for and respond to crises through simulated crisis situations. Prerequisite: PRAD 255

PRAD 377, Marketing Public Relations

This course explores the strategic use of public relations to attain marketing objectives. Marketing Public Relations (MPR) is an important part of a reputation building or product branding effort for a corporation, and it can also be a valuable strategy for government agencies and non-profit organizations. Lectures and projects will demonstrate ways to use public relations strategically to add value to integrated marketing programs. Student teams will apply this knowledge to solve real-world marketing problems. By the end of the course, teams will prepare and present key aspects of a marketing public relations plan to a client. Prerequisite: PRAD 255

PRAD 378, Creativity in Advertising

This course focuses on creative processes critical to advertising planning, program implementation and organizational leadership. Overall, the course is designed to help students think more creatively, no matter what their specific goals may be. Readings include case studies and guides to creative processes in advertising, as well as more personal essays by people working in other creative venues. Class assignments direct students in different ways to strengthen their creative abilities. Prerequisite: PRAD 244

PRAD 379, Advertising Media Planning

This course examines the diverse capabilities of various media available to advertisers and the process by which advertising media plans are constructed to help meet marketing communication objectives for a product or service. The course provides fundamentals on the language, tools, research methods and concepts employed in the media planning process and helps students build media plans using appropriate objectives, strategies and tactics. The course will help students develop a heightened appreciation for the roles of logic, analysis, and insight in the media buying process. Prerequisite: PRAD 244

PRAD 380, Political Communication

This course examines how various U.S. government agencies, jurisdictions, and politicians communicate with the public and how the public influences the government through communication. Topics covered include: theory, strategies, and tactics behind effective government and political communication; how to critically evaluate government and political communication; and how individuals and groups influence the government and politicians through communication. Prerequisite: PRAD 244 or PRAD 255.

PRAD 381, Advertising and Children

This course examines the social and behavioral effects of advertising directed to children, and addresses such topics as what children know and think about advertising, how children respond emotionally to advertising, how advertising can affect behavioral patterns, the changing regulatory environment and related social and psychological issues including materialism and self-esteem. Students will have the opportunity to assess the existing environment and to design creative interventions.

PRAD 382, Nonprofit Public Relations

This course examines the unique challenges and opportunities communicators face in the nonprofit sector. Topics covered include: nonprofit management and culture; community, media and government relations; capacity building, fundraising and grant writing; crisis communication skills for nonprofit communicators; and legal and ethical concerns for nonprofit communicators. Prerequisite: PRAD 255

PRAD 392, Special Topics in Advertising .

See current Course Schedule for offerings. Prerequisite: PRAD 244

PRAD 391, Special Topics in Public Relations

See current Course Schedule for offerings. Prerequisite: PRAD 255

PRAD 393, Special Topics in Public Communication

See current Course Schedule for offerings. Prerequisite: PRAD 244 or PRAD 255.

CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship

Placement of students in business, industry, or not-for-profit major specific internships. Opportunities in advertising, public relations, journalism, radio and television, museums and philanthropic outreach organizations. Program open to communication majors and minors who meet eligibility requirements.

CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics

This course is for students who wish to receive academic credit for a second or third internship. Must be a Communication major or minor who has completed CMN 394 or ISP250 and meets eligibility requirements. Must be taken concurrently with an internship. Topics include building and managing a communication career, effective networking, and leadership development.

CMNS 220, Public Speaking

Introduction to the skills required in a variety of public speaking settings. Includes units on delivery, language, defining speech purposes and content, finding supporting material, organization, and audience analysis. Students will be required to present speeches. Background in basic writing and library skills is necessary.

CMNS 395, Debate Practicum

This practicum centers on developing students' skills in debate and public discourse. Participation in forensic activities outside of the class (tournaments, public debates, etc.) is an expectation. This course can be taken a total of 6 times. 4 credit hours can count towards the PRAD major.

Bachelor of Arts in Media and Cinema Studies

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Degree Programs ▫ Bachelor of Arts in Media and Cinema Studies

Liberal Studies Requirements

Core Requirements

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Degree Programs ▫ Bachelor of Arts in Media and Cinema Studies ▫ Liberal Studies Requirements

Liberal Studies Requirements

First Year Program
Chicago Quarter	LSP 110 or LSP 111
Focal Point	LSP 112
Writing	WRD 103 and WRD 104
Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy	LSP 120 and LSP 121 (Note: This proficiency can be met through exams at QRC .)
Sophomore Year
Multiculturalism in the US	LSP 200
Junior Year
Experiential Learning	Required
Senior Year
Capstone	Required
Learning Domains
Arts and Literature (AL)	2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)	2 Courses Required
Scientific Inquiry (SI)	3 Courses Required (Note : One must be Lab)
Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)	2 Courses Required
Religious Dimensions (RD)	2 Courses Required
Understanding the Past (UP)	2 Courses Required

Note: Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy: All Communication students must complete the placement exam for Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy. Students must complete the one course into which they place (LSP 120 or LSP 121). Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Effective Summer 2010, changes were made to the liberal studies domain requirements allowing for more flexibility. Current students may also benefit from the less restrictive LSP domain requirements. Please note that the change is reflected in this liberal studies requirement grid.

Core Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Media and Cinema Studies

The College of Communication, located at the Loop Campus, offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Media and Cinema Studies. The BA in Media and Cinema Studies strategically combines faculty expertise, cutting-edge facilities, and a variety of course offerings within Communication, the School of Cinema and Interactive Media (CIM) (e.g., Digital Cinema), and other University units to provide students with the critical frameworks, creative opportunities, and technological expertise to become socially responsible leaders in the growing and converging areas of media studies. The major combines a rich course selection in four areas of study: film, radio, TV, and new media. Coursework combines theory and critical analysis with production courses taught at both the Lincoln Park (e.g., radio) and Loop campuses (e.g., television/video and cinema studies).

The Media and Cinema Studies Full-Time Faculty

LUISELA ALVARAY, PH.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of California, Los Angeles
PAUL BOOTH, PH.D.,
Assistant Professor,
Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

BLAIR DAVIS, PH.D.,
Assistant Professor,
McGill University

MICHAEL DEANGELIS, PH.D.,
Associate Professor,
University of Texas, Austin

KELLY KESSLER, PH.D.,
Assistant Professor,
University of Texas, Austin
DANIEL MAKAGON, PH.D.,
Associate Professor,
University of South Florida
SCOTT VYVERMAN, M.A.,
Instructor,
Northeastern Illinois University

The Media and Cinema Studies Major

In addition to the three core College of Communication courses, students take two Media and Cinema Studies core courses, four classes from the History/Criticism area and one class from the Production area. Students majoring in Media and Cinema Studies may take as many as three electives from any College of Communication or Digital Cinema offerings. All Media and Cinema Studies majors must complete a total of 13 classes, or 52 credit hours.

Common Core

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication students:
CMN 101, Introduction to Human Communication
CMN 102, Introduction to Mass Communication
CMN 103, Intercultural Communication

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Program Requirements

All Media and Cinema Studies majors must take the following two program requirements:

MCS 271, Media and Cultural Studies

MCS 273, Style and Storytelling in Cinema

In addition, students select a minimum of four History/Criticism courses from the following:

MCS 207, History of Cinema I, 1890-1945

MCS 208, History of Cinema II, 1945-1975

MCS 209, History of Cinema III, 1975-present

MCS 231 Introduction to Documentary Studies

MCS 251 Spaces of Cinema in Rome

MCS 252 Contemporary Italian Culture through Film

MCS 331 Topics in Documentary Studies

MCS 341, Topics in Radio Studies

MCS 342, History of Television and Radio

MCS 343 Media Ethics

MCS 348, Topics in Film Genre

MCS 349, Topics in Film Studies

MCS 350 Topics in Global Cinema

MCS 351 Topics in Television Studies

MCS 352 Topics in New Media

MCS 353 Topics in Media Studies

MCS 354 Topics in Mass Media

MCS 355 US Television and Sexuality

MCS 356 Topics in Documentary Production

MCS 357 Topics in Television Production

MCS 361 Fandom and Participatory Culture

MCS 366 Communication, Technology, and Society

MCS 375 Latino/a Television and Media

MCS 376 Latin American Cinema

MCS 383 Talking about Film: Theory and Criticism

INTC 309 (Formally CMNS 309) Global Communication

INTC 337 (Formally CMNS 337) Asian-American Media Representations

CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship

Prior course credit for CMN 272: Concepts in Media Design or CMN 347: Mass Media Criticism can count as toward History/Criticism electives as well.

Students select a minimum of one Production course from the following:

MCS 339 Radio Broadcasting

MCS 373 Audio Documentary

MCS 386 Radio Production

MCS 389 Topics in Media Production

DC 200 Media Literacies

DC 201 Introduction to Screenwriting

DC 210 Digital Cinema Production I

DC 215 Digital Sound Design

DC 220 Editing I

DC 272 Writing for Television

DC 275 Cinematography and Lighting

DC 271 Introduction to Television Production

DC 310 Digital Cinema Production II

DC 301 Advanced Screenwriting I

DC 371 Documentary Production

DC 372 Topics in TV Production

JOUR 276 Photojournalism

ANI 101 Animation

ANI 105 Motion Design

ART 328 Documentary Photography

College of Communication Electives

Students pursuing a degree in Media and Cinema Studies may take three additional electives from any College of Communication or from the Digital Cinema offerings listed above, provided that the DC classes in question have not already been taken under a MCS course number.

Latino Media and Communication concentration:

Students interested in pursuing a concentration in Latino Media and Communication may refer here for information about concentration requirements.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103) two courses in the chosen major and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the bachelors degree in Media and Cinema Studies by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any courses offered by DePaul University.

Course Descriptions

MCS 207 History of Cinema I, 1890-1945 (cross-listed with HAA 278)

This course examines the history of cinema as one of the most influential cultural forms of the 20th Century. We will study the aesthetic and technological developments of cinema during its first 50 years, as well as examine the social and economic factors shaping its history. Initially influenced by other art forms theater, literature, painting filmmaking quickly acquired its own formal system, language, and traditions. We will trace the changing styles, techniques, content, and methods of filmmaking as an art form, as popular culture, and as an industry. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 208 History of Cinema II, 1945-1975 (cross-listed with HAA 277)

This course covers the continued rise and development of cinema from 1945 to 1975. The course will have a dual focus, looking simultaneously at both the American studio system and international cinemas. The lectures, screenings, and discussions place equal emphasis on charting the development of cinematic techniques as well as examining the growth of specific national cinemas. In addition, the course surveys international stylistic trends in narrative, documentary, and avant-garde film. Students will acquire a broad understanding of the institutional, social, technological, and aesthetic forces that have shaped the development of cinema during the mid-twentieth century. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 209 History of Cinema III, 1975-present (cross-listed with HAA 279)

This final course in the film history sequence is designed to introduce students to a sense of modern film history and the multiple permutations of cinema around the globe. It presents film history from a global perspective, concentrating primarily on the development of new national and transnational cinemas. The course continues to chart the development of the American studios since the mid-1970s while examining the effects of media consolidation and convergence. Moreover, the course seeks to examine how global cinemas have reacted to and dealt with the formal influence and economic domination of Hollywood filmmaking on international audiences. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 231 Introduction to Documentary Studies

This course examines the rise and growth of documentary forms, including audio, film, television, photography, literary journalism and ethnography. Students will study representative works from each documentary approach and learn to analyze the techniques of observation and representation at use in these pieces. Students will become familiar with major theoretical constructions of documentary and be able to use these analytical tools to critique documentary forms. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 251 Spaces of Cinema in Rome

This course examines the history and heritage of Italian cinema through an analysis of critically acclaimed films produced in Rome. Topics of focus include the comparison of Italian and Hollywood constructions of historical settings, and the cinematic organization of visual space. The course features visits to the Roman sites where films examined in the course were produced. The courses goal is the development of an understanding of filmmakers artistic choices and the expectations that they set up for their audiences through setting. Offered in conjunction with the Rome Film Studies Program.

MCS 252 Contemporary Italian Culture through Film

This course provides an exploration of contemporary Italian culture through the medium of cinema. The course examines how cinema addresses complex social and political concerns in Italy. Topics and themes include health care; the transformation of the structure of the family; immigration and emigration; the perennial problem of organized crime; and the difficulties faced by the younger generations in their attempt to integrate into society. Italian film industry professionals and cultural historians will provide context and perspective on contemporary social issues facing Italy. Offered in conjunction with the Rome Film Studies Program.

MCS 271 Media and Cultural Studies

This course provides students with a theoretical and methodological background in the interdisciplinary field of cultural studies, which considers media and culture as sites for the construction and contestation of race, class, gender, ethnicity, sexuality and nation. The course provides a foundation in critical cultural studies, ideology critique, critical race and gender studies, transnational media studies and active audience studies.

MCS 273 Style and Storytelling in Cinema

This course covers basic concepts and terminology of film and video as forms of art and mass culture. This course covers the aesthetic systems that constitute film and video: plot structure, sets, costumes and makeup, acting, lighting, cinematography, editing, and sound. We consider how the interaction of these elements produces meaning in film and video. We also examine how these concepts are practiced in film and digital video production. After mastering the aesthetic concepts, students also examine their use in different modes of film communication: fiction, documentary, and the avant-garde as well as their functions in animation and gaming. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 286 Radio Practicum (prerequisite: permission of instructor)

Students who already actively participate at DePaul's radio station have the opportunity depending on the station's needs to produce on-air announcements, specialized broadcasts (weather, sports, University-based topics), newscasts, and assist station managers with their day-to-day responsibilities for MCS credit. In addition to working at the radio station, students must successfully complete a short research project on an approved topic. Students must receive instructor approval prior to registration: 1-2 credits per quarter depending on job responsibilities, 4 credits maximum prior to degree completion.

MCS 331 Topics in Documentary Studies

A rotating topics course that could focus on specific historical era or specific group of texts or documentarians from across film, television, audio, writing, photography. Courses like Feminism & Documentary, and Political Documentary fit under this heading.

MCS 339 Radio Broadcasting

The overall objectives of this course are to familiarize students with the radio broadcasting industry, the history of the medium and current issues facing broadcasters. Furthermore, we will discuss matters such as indecency, deregulation, and the many challenges that terrestrial radio is likely to face from Internet and satellite broadcasters. Additionally, we will discuss job responsibilities in the radio industry as well the day-to-day operations at radio stations. Finally, it is expected that students will be well prepared for advanced radio production and radio and television internships as a result of succeeding in this course.

MCS 341 Topics in Radio Studies

Subjects rotate among several historical and conceptual topics, such as Rock Radio, Talk Radio, Gender and Radio, Radio and American Culture, etc. Students will have the opportunity to build upon the foundations of radio that are explored in other radio courses. Radio topics courses are considered advanced study in the subject area; therefore, students are encouraged to complete MCS 339 or MCS 342 prior to taking a radio topics course.

MCS 342 History of Television and Radio

A history of radio, television, and cable that examines their relations to other media industries including programming, economics, industrial structures, audiences, government and industry policies, and social effects. The course includes viewing, analysis and criticism of significant and representative programming.

MCS 343 Media Ethics

Entertainment and social media dominate popular culture today in a way that begins to completely define American culture. In what ways do entertainment media impact society? As creators of media, what special responsibilities do we have? And as consumers of entertainment media how can we use these ethical theories in our daily practice? This course will examine the underlying ethical theories used when we try to arrive at ethical judgments about right and wrong. This course will concentrate on analyzing the impact of digital entertainment on an individual and society. The issue of balancing individual creativity vs. cultural impact, particularly on children, will be addressed. The course will culminate with the formulation of elements of an ethical code of conduct for every electronic (social) media, television professional and movie creator.

MCS 348 Topics in Film Genre

This course offers an historical examination of film genres, with a varying focus on one particular genre: film noir, musicals, melodrama, detective/gangster film, science fiction film, comedy, Western, animation, youth films. The course explores the relationship of genres to general social histories. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 349 Topics in Film Studies

Examination of a particular era of film history or national cinema, film movements, or moments in social history and their relationship to film production. Topics currently in rotation include Film Sound Studies, American Films of the 1970s, War and Film, feminist film, Psychoanalysis and Cinema, etc. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 350 Topics in Global Cinema

This course is designed as a critical study of global filmmakers and the issues surrounding cinema and its transnational circulation. The class will examine specific aspects of the growth and evolution of cinema and look at points of contact between different cultural discourses, national cinematic styles, genres, and reception. Recent topics have included Latin American Cinemas, Asian Cinemas, Transnational Cinema, New German Cinema, History of French Film, Contemporary Global Directors, etc. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 351 Topics in Television Studies

This course offers advanced study of television as a unique audio-visual culture with its own history and styles. This course presumes basic knowledge of television terms and methods of media analysis. Studies of a selected aspect of television history, television criticism, or national television are offered regularly. Recent topics have included Global Television, Reality TV, American TV of the 1950s, Television News, etc.

MCS 352 Topics in New Media

This course examines the effects of new and/or digital media on interpersonal communication, media industries, and/or media culture. Depending on the specific focus of this variable elective course, it might focus on economic, social, political, or aesthetic implications of new media, including the Internet, interactive games, and other new media technologies and applications.

MCS 353 Topics in Media Studies

This is a rotating topics class for subjects that encompass a number of different media, including radio, television, film. Possible topics may include: Media and Politics, Contemporary News Media, Reception Studies, Fan Studies, etc.

MCS 354 Topics in Mass Media

This is a rotating topics class for subjects that span a broad range of media outlets, from radio, television, film, and new media to journalism, advertising, and public relations. Possible topics may include: Chinese Mass Media, Children's Media, Media and Censorship, Media Regulation, etc.

MCS 355 US Television and Sexuality

This course will examine the continued negotiation of sex and sexuality on American television. Whether through their structuring absence, head-on attendance, or mere subtle implication, sex and sexuality have been omnipresent within the medium since its proliferation in the late 1940s. Through lenses of TV, social history, and gender/sexuality criticism, this course will examine various ways in which sexual issues such as the marriage bed, female sexual agency, GLBT visibility, teen sex, and rape have made their ways onto and been pushed off of the small screen. It will also interrogate how these broad categories interact with TV's assumed social role, contemporary and historical notions of American values, and TV regulation.

MCS 356 Topics in Documentary Production

The course will focus on developing skills in conceptualizing, directing, and editing various styles of documentary films. Students will explore the documentary filmmaking process by viewing a range of documentary films and deconstructing/ discussing their attributes, learning basic interview techniques and constructing narratives and stories. Emphasis will be placed on developing technical proficiencies in hand-held cinematography, location sound recording, and editing. Students will produce documentary projects in team groups throughout the term. Ultimately, the goal is for students to learn to define and interpret their own personal directorial approach to documentary film making.

MCS 357 Topics in Television Production

This is a rotating topics class for developing skills in the conceptualization, direction, and editing of television programs. Students will explore techniques of television storytelling and style. Students will produce projects throughout the term.

MCS 361 Fandom and Participatory Culture

This course introduces students to the world of media fandom. Fans are people who hold an emotional attachment to media texts. By investigating the types of media texts people connect to, as well as the work fans do in their community, students encounter new ways of participating with media. Students not only examine fans as cultural producers, who make media just as much as they consume it, but also examine media from the point of view of a fan. This course also looks at how participating in fandom can aid the development of diversity and positive social change.

MCS 366 Communication, Technology, & Society

Survey of a variety of contemporary and historical issues related to the introduction and diffusion of communication technologies in society. Especially examines how new technologies, particularly the Internet, are transforming the communication landscape. Emphasis on issues of intellectual property, surveillance, privacy, regulation, message construction, and access will be a central component of the course.

MCS 373 Audio Documentary

This course uses hands-on projects so that students can explore the steps in the process of creating an audio documentary. Through practical application students consider questions that surround the interpretation of cultural experience. Additionally, students analyze a variety of approaches to audio documentary in an effort to understand better this significant form of storytelling. There is a lab fee for this course.

MCS 375 Latino/a Television and Media

Drawing from Latin American and U.S. television studies, this course explores the political, industrial and cultural dynamics that shape televisual representations in Latin American television and/or Spanish language Television in the US. More specifically, Spanish-language television and media will be examined from interdisciplinary frameworks, which include the cultural analysis of televisual modes, national and international regulations of media production and distribution, histories of production, and ethnographies of viewing.

MCS 376 Latin American Cinema

This course examines the production, distribution and impact of cinema in the Latin American context. Transnational relations with other industries, such as Hollywood and the European film context will be considered. We will investigate how social, economic and political forces have shaped or are presently influencing and transforming national cinemas. Questions of identity and cultural difference, particularly in relation to immigration, diasporas, transnationalism, youth culture, class, gender, sexuality, race and ethnicity are central to the discussions. We will consider the diversity of styles and topics that are now redefining the cinema of the region.

MCS 383 Talking about Film: Theory and Criticism (prerequisite: MCS 273 or permission of instructor)

This course is designed to offer a comprehensive survey of the major theoretical approaches from the 1910s to the present. The purpose of this course is to familiarize students with a wide range of disciplines (film, art history, philosophy, psychology, etc.) and how these ideas both inflected the development of classical film theories as well as the evolution of cinema. To achieve this, you will survey key theoretical texts and integrate these readings with films shown throughout the semester. In doing so, we will try to understand the contributions of these theorists to the field of film studies as well as the intellectual movements from which they draw their ideas. Moreover, the scope of the course seeks to examine the overall process whereby theoretical discourse develops historically. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 386 Radio Production (prerequisite: MCS 286, MCS 339, or permission of instructor)

Students will learn radio broadcasting and audio production techniques. Students will work in a lab environment to complete broadcast quality production work. Though the emphasis of the course will be on broadcast writing, speech, and production techniques, students will have the opportunity to perform on-air shifts at DePaul's radio station and complete non-traditional production work, such as podcasts.

MCS 389 Topics in Media Production

This course is a rotating topic course in areas of media production and may include classes such as Podcasting, Advanced Radio Production, Advanced Audio Documentary, Radio News, Multimedia Production, etc. There may be a lab fee for the course.

ANI 101 Animation

Course introduces a variety of basic animation techniques for cinema and gaming, such as hand-drawn, cutout, stop-motion and (very basic) 3D, with an emphasis on the use of computer technology. Examples of diverse animation genres and styles (experimental, cartoon, anime, special effects, computer games) from different cultures will be screened and discussed. Students will explore the unique qualities of the medium through a series of hands-on projects that can be adapted to their own personal interests. They will learn about professional animation process (storyboard and animatic) during the production of a final project that encourages them to consider the role and potential of animation in our society.

ANI 105 Motion Design

This course introduces the basic concepts of design for time-based digital media. Students study the principles of composition and color theory, and how these are affected by movement, duration and display. Vector and bitmap manipulation tools are explored in relation to game design, video and Internet production.

ART 291 Art and Social Interaction: Documentary Video

Topics in the relationship between art and community action.

ART 328 Documentary Photography

Exploration of photographic concepts and techniques used in artistic, journalistic and sociological documentation.

CMN 101 Introduction to Human Communication

This core course is required of all majors in the College of Communication. The class provides an introduction to the field of relational, group, and organizational communication. Students become acquainted with the basic terms, concepts and theoretical perspectives used to examine communication in dyadic, group, and organizational contexts.

CMN 102 Introduction to Media Communication

This course offers students a broad overview of the mass media (print, film, video, recorded music, radio, television and the internet) with a particular focus on how these media impact our everyday lives. Students will develop critical frameworks for understanding how power operates across the media spheres of production, circulation, representation and reception. Attention is placed on how the social categories of race, class, gender, sexuality, ethnicity, age and nationality inform each of these media spheres. The course also considers how recent developments in digital technologies, media convergence and globalization have transformed our media culture.

CMN 103 Intercultural Communication

This course is required for all majors in the College of Communication. The class explores issues pertaining to communication and culture. Here, we consider the important role of context (social/political, historical, and interpersonal) in cultural interactions. Specifically, we examine the complex relationship between culture and communication from three conceptual perspectives: the social/psychological, the interpretive, and the critical.

JOUR 276 Photojournalism

Introduction to the theoretical and technical foundations of photography with exploration of the medium's aesthetic, documentary and narrative purposes.

INTC 309 (Formally CMNS 309) Global Communication

Focuses on the world of international/global news flow and media systems in a comparative manner. Emphasizes changes that have followed the modernization of the media, the impact of globalization on individual countries, attempts to preserve the cultural character of domestic media content in the face of increased amounts of imported products, and the effects of new communication technologies, particularly the Internet.

INTC 337 (Formally CMNS 337) Asian American Media Representations

Critically examines how Asian Americans have been represented in historical and contemporary media texts. Students explore the social construction of Asian Americans from selected films, TV shows, and print media and how these media constructions have affected Asian Americans self-perceived identity and perpetuated stereotypes, prejudice, and racism against Asian Americans in the United States. The course takes an interdisciplinary approach in the analysis of the media images and explores issues of power, identity, race, gender, class, sexual orientation and the interaction of these factors in the representation of Asian Americans.

JOUR 377 Topics in Journalism: Literary Journalism

This course explores a history of literary journalism, paying special attention to the unique intersections of process and product in this form of cultural reporting. Students will read the work of literary journalists and write a literary piece that could be published in a literary magazine or Internet site.

DC 200 Media Literacies

This course is designed to help students develop an informed, critical and practical understanding of new communication media, including ways to read, write and produce in a digital environment. We will explore implications of these technologies and their uses in schools, communities, and workplaces. The course also focuses on practices involving current and future technologies that hold promise for the creation and distribution of all media.

DC 201 Introduction to Screenwriting

This course focuses on narrative storytelling and encourages students to find their unique voices, while emphasizing the critical importance of working as part of a creative team. Emphasis is placed on telling a story in terms of action and the reality of characters in cinema, animation and gaming. The difference between the literary and visual medium is explored through individual writing projects and group analysis. In addition, the nature of the interactive story will be examined focusing on the differences as well as the similarities between gaming and the other narrative forms.

DC 210 Digital Cinema Production I

A beginning workshop in digital cinematic expression, this course deals with grammar and construction of visual storytelling through editing materials and through learning simple scripting and storyboarding. Use of a mini DV camera as well as basic editing software is taught, and students shoot projects of increasing complexity while learning to use the medium to tell a visual story with a point.

DC 215 Digital Sound Design

This course examines the place of sound in cinema, both artistic and technological. The course will cover the basics of sound, microphones, and analogue-to-digital conversion. Lectures, readings, and film clips will be used to illustrate the language of film sound, as practiced by film directors, sound designers, and editors. Students will learn to edit sound assignments with Pro Tools and other appropriate technologies.

DC 220 Editing I

Students analyze and assemble dramatic scenes under a variety of conditions and narrative strategies. Editing theories, techniques and procedures, issues of continuity, effects, movement and sound are examined as they relate to the fundamentals of cinematic montage and visual storytelling.

DC 271 Introduction to Television Production

This course provides basic studio exercises and productions where the students become familiar with the tools of the medium and the processes involved in the creation of complete television programs. Emphasis is placed on understanding the role that software and hardware play in the structuring of visual and sound to communicate through television. The focus is on finding, writing, editing and delivering media content.

DC 272 Writing for Television

The primary objective of this course is to learn how to write for television, for both network and cable, focusing on fiction and non-fiction TV programs including news, talk, documentaries, dramas and comedies. The course will assist students in improving their writing skills as well as help them understand the basic approaches and techniques in writing for television.

DC 275 Cinematography

Course gives students working knowledge of DV and HD camera equipment and lighting. Operation and maintenance procedures are specified for each camera. The duties of the camera assistant and operator are also covered. Course introduces basic cinema and animation lighting techniques for students with little or no studio lighting experience. Students become familiar with the uses of standard pieces of lighting equipment, and important safety procedures. The role of grip and gaffer on the movie set is also explored. Special attention will be given to important light measuring techniques including use of the spot meter. Course encourages intelligent, thoughtful approaches to lighting and cinematography based on dramatic structure and script.

DC 301 Advanced Screenwriting I

In this course, students study, analyze and produced motion picture scripts. This course emphasizes the use of traditional storytelling, classic mythology and how these devices apply to contemporary screenplays. Students will move from concept/treatment to a completed first act of a feature length screenplay of their own.

DC 310 Digital Cinema Production II

This class presents a variety of topics and experiences that are designed to broaden the student's understanding of the art of cinematic storytelling and montage. Work on more advanced projects is integrated into the class as a means to understanding of advanced editing tools and techniques.

DC 371 Documentary Production

This course uses hands-on projects to explore each step in the process of documentary filmmaking. Inherent to the study are technical considerations, such as lighting and handheld spontaneous style and editing the complex structure of the documentary

DC 372 Topics in TV Production

This course is a hands-on experience in television production of news and public affairs programs. Students learn through theory and practice the role TV Producers and their teams play in creating various TV programs.

LST 300 Topics in Latin American Studies: Documentary in the Americas

This course explores the various forms and functions of documentary in Latin American countries and created by Latin American documentary filmmakers and videomakers.

MUS 208 Community Audio Art Production

This Experiential Learning course involves collaborative art production, electro-acoustic and computer music, experimental sound techniques, radio art, political music, socially engaged audio documentary, soundscape design, field recordings, sound installation, conceptual art, public service announcements, and interdisciplinary art. In addition to a historical survey of works in this genre, students will complete one group project and one solo project. This course may only be used as a free elective for students in the School of Music.

CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship

Placement of students in business, industry, or not-for-profit major specific internships. Opportunities in advertising, public relations, journalism, radio and television, museums and philanthropic outreach organizations. Program open to communication majors and minors who meet eligibility requirements.

CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics

This course is for students who wish to receive academic credit for a second or third internship. Must be a Communication major or minor who has completed CMN 394 or ISP250 and meets eligibility requirements. Must be taken concurrently with an internship. Topics include building and managing a communication career, effective networking, and leadership development.

Bachelor of Arts in Communication and Media

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Degree Programs ▫ Bachelor of Arts in Communication and Media

Liberal Studies Requirements

Core Requirements

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Degree Programs ▫ Bachelor of Arts in Communication and Media ▫ Liberal Studies Requirements

Liberal Studies Requirements

First Year Program
Chicago Quarter	LSP 110 or LSP 111
Focal Point	LSP 112
Writing	WRD 103 and WRD 104
Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy	LSP 120 and LSP 121 (Note: This proficiency can be met through exams at QRC .)
Sophomore Year
Multiculturalism in the US	LSP 200
Junior Year
Experiential Learning	Required
Senior Year
Capstone	Required
Learning Domains
Arts and Literature (AL)	2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)	2 Courses Required
Scientific Inquiry (SI)	3 Courses Required (Note : One must be Lab)
Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)	2 Courses Required
Religious Dimensions (RD)	2 Courses Required
Understanding the Past (UP)	2 Courses Required

Note: Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy : All Communication students must complete the placement exam for Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy. Students must complete the one course into which they place (LSP 120 or LSP 121). Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Effective Summer 2010, changes were made to the liberal studies domain requirements allowing for more flexibility. Current students may also benefit from the less restrictive LSP domain requirements. Please note that the change is reflected in this liberal studies requirement grid.

Core Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Communication and Media

The College of Communication offers a variety of courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Communication and Media. The BA in Communication and Media offers students the opportunity to pursue coursework in communication and media that draws upon two or more related areas of study. This degree will provide flexibility for transfer students and others who have not determined their precise career trajectory, while affording them the fundamental communication and critical thinking skills needed to enter jobs across the public, private and non-profit sectors, or to continue their education in academic or professional post-graduate programs. This major is designed especially for those students holding allied field interests, as well as those who would like to complete a communication degree, by taking mostly evening courses. In order to complete this degree, students have the option of pursuing coursework from any of the other majors offered in the College of Communication.

Communication and Media Requirements

Communication and Media majors must complete the three core courses required of all College of Communication students. In addition, they must take ten electives from among the College of Communication course offerings. Five of these courses must be 300-level classes. All Communication and Media majors must complete a total of 13 classes, or 52 credit hours.

Common Core

The core courses are required of all College of Communication Studies students:

CMN 101, Introduction to Human Communication

CMN 102, Introduction to Mass Communication

CMN 103, Intercultural Communication

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional course work in the major.

Program Requirements

Presentation Requirement

All Communication and Media majors must take one presentation skills course from the following selection of classes:

ORGC 201, (formerly CMNS 201) Business and Professional Communication

INTC 220, (formerly CMNS 220) Public Speaking

INTC 230, (formerly CMNS 230) Performance of Literature

CMNS 306, Topics in Presentation

INTC 322, (formerly CMNS 322) Advanced Public Speaking (prerequisite INTC 220, or permission)

INTC 330, (formerly CMNS 330) Topics in Performance

Media Analysis Requirement

All Communication and Media majors must take one media analysis course from the following selection of classes:

MCS 231, Introduction to Documentary Studies

MCS 271, Media and Cultural Studies

MCS 273, Film/Video Analysis

Communication and Media Electives

All Communication and Media majors must take two elective courses from Communication (from Intercultural, Organizational or Relational Communication) and two elective courses dealing with Media (from Journalism, Media and Cinema Studies, or Public Relations and Advertising).

Students select their remaining four courses from among the course offerings of Intercultural Communication, Organizational Communication, Relational Communication, Journalism, Media and Cinema Studies, and Public Relations and Advertising, including up to two approved classes from Digital Cinema (approved classes are DC 200, DC 201, DC 210, DC 215, DC 220, DC 271, DC 272, DC 275, DC 301, DC 310, DC 371 DC 372).

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship (when placement relates to the major) and CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics for credit. In order to take CMN 394 and CMN 395, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103), have fulfilled both the presentation and the media requirements for this major, and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Bachelor of Arts Degree in Professional Communication for Adults

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Degree Programs ▫ Bachelor of Arts Degree in Professional Communication for Adults

Core Requirements

Adult Degree Completion Program: Professional Communication Studies

Through the Bachelor of Arts in Professional Communication Studies, you will examine communication processes in organizational group and public settings and the relationship between effective communication and organizational structure. You will learn how to communicate for organizational change in multicultural settings. You will polish your writing and speaking skill as well as gain those skills needed to succeed in fields such as training and development, management, public relations, marketing and organizational communication, event planning, social networks and advertising. Because this degree is for students age 24 or older who have an associate degree or an equivalent 66 hours of transferable credit, you will be learning with peers. You will gain experience working with, learning from and completing educational projects with other adults in a program specifically designed to meet your practical and academic needs. You will create a professional portfolio that you can use as you further your career.

Program Overview

Upon completion of this degree, Communication Studies students are expected to:

- Articulate the impact of language/discourse on attitudes, actions, and on identity formation.
- Understand and appreciate the complexities of human communication, and how these dynamics impact life in relationships, groups, organizational and intercultural settings.
- Be able to understand and critique the effectiveness of human communication in multiple contexts.
- Have the knowledge and skills to work effectively in relational, group and organizational settings.
- Have the capacity to exert influence and affect outcomes in relational, group and organizational settings.
- Understand the symbiotic relationship between communication and culture.

Course Requirements

Communication Core

Required courses:

- CMN 103 Intercultural Communication
- ORGC 201 (formerly CMNS 201) Business & Professional Communication
- ORGC 251 (formerly CMNS 251) Organizational Communication
- DCM 303 Leadership Models for Strong Organizations
- DCM 311 Conflict Management and Negotiation
- DCM 324 Effective Group & Personal Dynamics
- PRAD 255 Introduction to Public Relations

Methods

Required course:

- DCM 309 Applied Research

Understanding Human Behavior

Required courses:

- DCM 307 Analyzing Human Behavior
- PSY 347 Social Psychology

Students choose one:

- DCM 325 Work & Society
- DCM 304 Evolving Professional Ethics

Workplace & Analytical Skills

Required courses:

- DCM 310 Thinking Critically
- DCM 330 Professional Writing

Students choose 5 of the following:

- RELC 313 (formerly CMNS 313) Nonverbal Communication
- ORGC 316 (formerly CMNS 316) Group Decision Making
- RELC 329 (formerly CMNS 329) Persuasion
- ORGC 353 (formerly CMNS 353) Communication and Organizational Change
- ORGC 354 (formerly CMNS 354) Interviewing
- ORGC 356 (formerly CMNS 356) Communication Consulting
- CMNS 392 Independent Study

Adult Learning Seminars

Students will need to complete all of the following courses:

- DCM 313 Learning from Experience and Self-Assessment
- DCM 314 Learning and Transformation
- DCM 315 Exploring the Field
- DCM 316 Professional Business Writing
- DCM 317 Ethics in the Professions
- DCM 318 Social Justice Issues in the Disciplines
- DCM 319 Creativity & Innovative Thinking
- DCM 320 Professional Portfolio Development
- DCM 321 Capstone Planning
- DCM 322 Capstone Project/Portfolio Review

Course Descriptions

All course descriptions are currently included in the undergraduate College of Communication catalogue, undergraduate catalogue of The School for New Learning and the undergraduate catalogue of The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Bachelor of Arts in Intercultural Communication

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Degree Programs ▫ Bachelor of Arts in Intercultural Communication

Liberal Studies Requirements

First Year Program
Chicago Quarter
LSP 110 or LSP 111

Focal Point	LSP 112
Writing	WRD 103* and WRD 104*
Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy	LSP 120 and LSP 121 (Note: See information below.)
Sophomore Year
Multiculturalism in the US	LSP 200
Junior Year
Experiential Learning	Required
Senior Year
Capstone	Required*
Learning Domains
Arts and Literature (AL)	2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)	2 Courses Required
Scientific Inquiry (SI)	3 Courses Required (Note : One must be a Lab.)
Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)	2 Courses Required
Religious Dimensions (RD)	2 Courses Required
Understanding the Past (UP)	2 Courses Required
Note:	* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Note: Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the students major and is cross-listed with a course within the students major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy :

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

Core Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Intercultural Communication

The BA in Intercultural Communication offers students an interdisciplinary degree program that is inclusive of rhetorical studies, performance studies, language and social interaction, sociolinguistics, ethnography, gender studies, public address, critical/cultural communication, and global/transnational studies. Students in this program engage theories and methods for understanding human communication across a variety of intercultural contexts, ranging from urban communication, popular culture, and consumerism to a broad intersection of identities (race, gender, sexuality, class, nation, age, religion, ability).

The curriculum is both deep and broad, enabling students to gain practical expertise in their area of interest while gaining a working knowledge of related areas. The curriculum focuses on ethical practice and the convergence of traditional and new media, preparing students for professional practice in an evolving marketplace. Students learn to express themselves well in oral and written communications, to think critically about communication events all around them, to develop skills valuable in the workplace, and to communicate effectively in a diverse world.

The Intercultural Communication Full-Time Faculty

JACQUELINE TAYLOR, Ph.D.,
Professor and Dean
University of Texas, Austin

LISA CALVENTE, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
University of North Carolina

DUSTIN GOLTZ, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
Arizona State University

STEPHANIE HOWELL, M.A.,
Instructor
Southern Illinois University

LUCY XING LU, Ph.D.,
Professor
University of Oregon

DANIEL MAKAGON, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of South Florida

KIMBERLEE PEREZ, M.A.,
Instructor
Arizona State University

BARBARA SPEICHER, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
Northwestern University

BARBARA WILLARD, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of Iowa

MICHAELA WINCHATZ, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
University of Washington

The Intercultural Communication Major

Intercultural Communication majors must complete the three core courses required of all College of Communication students. In addition, they must take one of the approved presentation courses and seven of the approved electives. Intercultural Communication majors must also take any two electives within the College of Communication. All Intercultural Communication majors must complete a total of 13 classes, or 52 credit hours.

Common Core

CMN 101 Introduction to Human Communication
CMN 102 Introduction to Mass Communication
CMN 103 Intercultural Communication

Required courses

All Intercultural Communication majors are required to take one of the following presentation courses in addition to the core courses listed above:

- INTC 220 Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 220)
- INTC 230 Performance of Literature (Formerly CMNS 230)
- INTC 322 Advanced Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 322)
- INTC 330 Topics in Performance (Formerly CMNS 330)
- INTC 367 Performance for Social Change (Formerly CMNS 367)

Major Electives for Intercultural Communication (Choose 7 Classes from the following -must total 28 hours)

- INTC 205 Communication, Culture and Community (Formerly CMNS 205)
- INTC 206 Communicating Multicultural Identities
- INTC 220 Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 220)
- INTC 230 Performance of Literature (Formerly CMNS 230)
- INTC 304 Multiculturalism in the U.S.A.
- INTC 290 Intercultural Communication Workshop
- INTC 307 Topics in Political and Social Communication (Formerly CMNS 307)
- INTC 308 Topics in Intercultural Communication (Formerly CMNS 308)
- INTC 309 Global Communication (Formerly CMNS 309)
- INTC 310 Discourse Analysis (Formerly CMNS 310)
- INTC 321 Cultural and Symbolic Criticism (Formerly CMNS 321)
- INTC 322 Advanced Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 322)
- INTC 323 Social Movements (Formerly CMNS 323)
- INTC 324 Culture of Consumption (Formerly CMNS 324)
- INTC 325 Promoting Sustainable Practices (Formerly CMNS 325 Environmental Communication Workshop)
- INTC 326 Environmental Politics and Rhetoric (Formerly CMNS 326)
- INTC 328 History of Rhetoric and Communication (Formerly CMNS 328)
- RELC 329 Persuasion (Formerly CMNS 329)
- INTC 330 Topics in Performance (Formerly CMNS 330)
- INTC 331 Communication Fieldwork (Formerly CMNS 331)
- INTC 332 Topics in Intercultural Communication Methodology
- INTC 333 Cultural Ways of Speaking (Formerly CMNS 333)
- INTC 334 Urban Communication (Formerly CMNS 334)
- INTC 335 Latino Communication, Culture & Community (Formerly CMNS 335)
- INTC 337 Asian-American Media Representations (Formerly CMNS 337)
- INTC 338 Asian Culture and Communication (Formerly CMNS 338)
- INTC 340 Legislating Language
- INTC 361 Gender and Communication (Formerly CMNS 361)
- INTC 367 Performance for Social Change (Formerly CMNS 367)
- INTC 392 Independent Study (Formerly CMNS 392)
- INTC 393 Intercultural Communication Practicum (Formerly CMNS 393)
- INTC 395 Debate Practicum (Formerly CMNS 395)
- CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship
- CMN 395 Communication Internship Topics

College of Communication Electives

Intercultural Communication majors may choose to take any two College of Communication courses as open electives.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship or CMN 395 Communication Internship (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394 or CMN 395, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, and CMN 103) and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the bachelors degree in Intercultural Communication by taking an additional 56 quarter hours from any courses offered by DePaul University.

Latino Media and Communication Concentrati on

Students interested in pursuing a concentration in Latino Media and Communication may refer here for information about concentration requirements.

Course Descriptions

CMN 101, Introduction to Human Communication

This core course is required of all majors in the College of Communication. The class provides an introduction to the field of relational, group, and organizational communication. Students become acquainted with the basic terms, concepts and theoretical perspectives used to examine communication in dyadic, group, and organizational contexts.

CMN 102, Introduction to Media Communication (formerly CMN 110)

This course offers students a broad overview of the mass media (print, film, video, recorded music, radio, television and the internet) with a particular focus on how these media impact our everyday lives. Students will develop critical frameworks for understanding how power operates across the media spheres of production, circulation, representation and reception. Attention is placed on how the social categories of race, class, gender, sexuality, ethnicity, age and nationality inform each of these media spheres. The course also considers how recent developments in digital technologies, media convergence and globalization have transformed our media culture.

CMN 103, Intercultural Communication (formerly CMN 203)

This course is required for all majors in the College of Communication. The class explores issues pertaining to communication and culture. Here, we consider the important role of context (social/political, historical, and interpersonal) in cultural interactions. Specifically, we examine the complex relationship between culture and communication from three conceptual perspectives: the social/psychological, the interpretive, and the critical.

INTC 205, Communication, Culture, and Community (formerly CMNS 205)

Examines the relationships among culture, communication, institutions, and public and private life. Students explore the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through service in community organizations. The course also fulfills the junior year experiential learning requirement through community based service learning.

INTC 206, Communicating Multicultural Identities

This course examines identity from a critical/poststructuralist position, approaching the notion of identity as a discursive production and negotiation within the complex systems of power, privilege, and oppression.

Together, we will examine the ways in which discourse influences our personal identity construction as well as the ways that it constructs our ideas about other identities (gender, race, sexuality, etc.). Through reading, discussion, and reflection, we will interrogate how individual and group identities are theorized, constructed, negotiated, and transformed; how identity is shaped by rhetorical discursive and nondiscursive practices; and how identity construction is situated in historical/social/political/ideological contexts.

INTC 220, Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 220)

Introduction to the skills required in a variety of public speaking settings. Includes units on delivery, language, defining speech purposes and content, finding supporting material, organization, and audience analysis. Students will be required to present speeches. Background in basic writing and library skills is necessary.

INTC 230, Performance of Literature (Formerly CMNS 230)

Introduction to the communication of literature through oral interpretation. Involves critical analyses of selected literary works and preparation for and delivery of short performances.

INTC 290, Intercultural Communication Workshop

This course allows students to sample a range of hands on, practical offerings Intercultural Communication Studies that can enhance their knowledge and expertise. Workshop topics can include Survey Design and Focus Groups, among others. Students may take a maximum of 4 credit hours of INTC 290 in the major, and a total of 8 credit hours. CMNS 290 is a 2 cr. hour class.

INTC 305, Multiculturalism in the U.S.A. (formerly CMNS 304)

An examination of communication within and between linguistic communities in the United States. Focus will be on the relations between language use and social institutions such as the family, the community, the media, and the educational system.

INTC 307, Topics in Social and Political Discourse (Formerly CMNS 307)

Examines intensively one or more issues in the Culture and Communication Track. The topics differ each term focusing on a particular area of discourse such as environmental communication, political communication, and sexuality and communication.

INTC 308, Topics in Intercultural Communication (Formerly CMNS 308)

Examination of the application of linguistic and rhetorical theories to various specializations in cultural discourse. The course focuses each term on one particular area such as semiotics, language acquisition, or language and power.

INTC 309, Global Communication (Formerly CMNS 309)

Focuses on the world of international/global news flow and media systems in a comparative manner. Emphasizes changes that have followed the modernization of the media, the impact of globalization on individual countries, attempts to preserve the cultural character of domestic media content in the face of increased amounts of imported products, and the effects of new communication technologies, particularly the Internet.

INTC 310, Discourse Analysis (Formerly CMNS 310)

An analytical examination of the ways in which people locate meaning cooperate, coordinate, and find coherency in conversations and in other forms of discourse, both spoken and written. The class will analyze and disclose meanings hidden in public discourse.

INTC 321 Cultural and Symbolic Criticism (Formerly CMNS 321)

Introduction to the critical methodologies of rhetorical analysis. Students are instructed in ways to become more reflective consumers of discourse by examining how rhetoric instructs reality, shapes the social and political agenda and engages questions of ethics, power and persuasion. The course promotes a critical awareness of the role symbols play in influencing human perception, attitude, and action in a diverse culture.

INTC 322, Advanced Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 322)

Analyzes theories and develops skills required in persuasive speaking situations. This course is an extension of the public speaking class (CMN 220) and explores in greater detail than the first course the analysis of audiences, sources of resistance to persuasion, and appropriate logical and psychological strategies for persuasive speeches.

INTC 323, Social Movements (Formerly CMNS 323)

This course examines the rhetoric of social movements throughout American History. As a rhetoric class, the focus is primarily on the symbolic creation of movements in order to provide background of the political and social events that gave rise to the movement. Using readings from a variety of sources, we will investigate the discursive construction of power as it relates to society and politics. The class will take a case-study approach to examining social movement rhetoric, exploring the discourse that has served to resist oppressive, or perceptively oppressive, systems.

INTC 324, Culture of Consumption (Formerly CMNS 324)

Introduces students to the critique of our consumer culture. Teaches students how to be critical consumers and understand how to be critical consumers and understand how we consume lifestyles, images, aesthetics, and desire through our shopping patterns. Provides theoretical, observational, and critical tools that allow students to critique patterns of consumption, the production of culture through consumption, and how consumption is a means of communication.

INTC 325, Promoting Sustainable Practices (Formerly CMNS 325)

Provides a foundation in the communication skills necessary for achieving conservation goals. Introduces communication approaches such as social marketing, citizen participation, public campaigns, and environmental interpretation that have proven effective in the work of conservation professionals.

INTC 326, Environmental Politics and Rhetoric (Formerly CMNS 326)

Introduces students to a rhetorical perspective on environmental public discourse. Course also explores the relationship between rhetorically constituted ideas about nature and the development of political and social ideas, institutions, and practices that inform our understanding of the human place in the environment.

INTC 328, History of Rhetoric and Communication (Formerly CMNS 328)

Offers an overview of historical foundations of the communication field. Examines how the formulations of rhetoric by various thinkers derived from cultural, religious, and political contexts shape human consciousness and communication patterns. Students read primary and secondary materials on classical rhetoric and rhetoric of diverse cultures. The course promotes an understanding and appreciation of antiquity and development of ideas over time in relation to current cultural and communicative patterns.

INTC 329, Persuasion (Formerly CMNS 329)

Explores major theoretical assumptions of current persuasion research. Examines causes and effects of effective and ineffective persuasion. Analyzes persuasive skills and strategies for a variety of persuasion applications, e.g. political, interpersonal, intercultural, and advertising.

INTC 330, Topics in Performance (Formerly CMNS 330)

Advanced study in performance focusing on a specific genre each quarter such as: Poetry, Fiction, Nonfiction, Drama or Chamber Theater. Other possibilities include: performing autobiography; life performances; ritual, ceremony, and storytelling; and radio and television performances.

INTC 331, Communication Fieldwork (Formerly CMNS 331)

Provides students with experience conducting qualitative research, including data collection techniques, data coding and analysis, as well as interpretation of data and writing ethnographic reports. In addition to providing practical hands-on training in ethnographic research, this course explores the theory, ethics, and politics behind various qualitative research methodologies.

INTC 332, Topics in Intercultural Communication Methodology

Courses explore a range of qualitative and quantitative research strategies. Topics may include more specialized modes of gathering and assessing data, using new data technologies and software programs, and conducting communication studies.

INTC 333, Cultural Ways of Speaking (Formerly CMNS 333)

Explores how speakers reveal culture through their everyday interactions. This course focuses on speaking as an activity through which individuals identify themselves with communities of discourse, within the United States as well as across cultural groups. It provides students with experience in discovering diverse ways of speaking and codes concerning what it means to be a person, how people relate to each other, and how they view the world.

INTC 334, Urban Communication (Formerly CMNS 334)

Examines relationships between material features of the city and symbolic representations of urban life (e.g., photography, film, songs, public discourse) with the goal of understanding the city as a site of communication. Special attention is paid to expressions of hope for and fear of the city.

INTC 335 Latino Communication, Culture, & Community (Formerly CMNS 335)

Examines the relationships among Latino cultures, communication, institutions, and public and private life. Students explore the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through service in Latino community organizations. The course also fulfills the junior year experiential learning requirement through community based service learning.

INTC 337, Asian-American Media Representations (Formerly CMNS 337)

Critically examines how Asian Americans have been represented in historical and contemporary media texts. Students explore the social construction of Asian Americans from selected films, TV shows, and print media and how these media constructions have affected Asian Americans self-perceived identity and perpetuated stereotypes, prejudice, and racism against Asian Americans in the United States. The course takes an interdisciplinary approach in the analysis of the media images and explores issues of power, identity, race, gender, class, sexual orientation and the interaction of these factors in the representation of Asian Americans.

INTC 338, Asian Culture and Communication (Formerly CMNS 338)

Reviews major Asian philosophical and religious traditions such as Hinduism, Confucianism, Taoism, and Buddhism and examines how these traditions influence and affect Asian cultures and communication behaviors, particularly communication among Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, and Asian Americans in various contexts.

INTC 340, Legislating Language

This course examines language legislation and rules globally at national and institutional levels. We explore the ideologies and motivations that underlie such policies.

INTC 361, Gender and Communication (Formerly CMNS 361)

A review of the differences in communication patterns between women and men. Topics covered include language and language usage differences, interaction patterns, gender social movements, and perceptions of the sexes generated through language and communication.

INTC 367, Performance for Social Change (Formerly 367)

This is an experiential field experience that examines the role of performance in social activism. Student projects will identify a social issue of critical concerns and devise a performative response.

INTC 392, Independent Study (Formerly CMNS 392)

1-4 credit hours.

INTC 393, Intercultural Communication Practicum (Formerly CMNS 393)

Structured and supervised student participation in collegiate debating, radio production or group presentations for various audiences. Includes practical experience in research, rehearsal and performance. Students may take a maximum of 2 credit hours in one quarter, 4 credit hours in the major, and 8 total credit hours.

INTC 395, Debate Practicum (Formerly CMNS 395)

This practicum centers on developing students' skills in debate and public discourse. Participation in forensic activities outside of the class (tournaments, public debates, etc.) is an expectation. This course can be taken a total of 6 times. 8 credit hours can count towards the CMNS major.

CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship

Placement of students in business, industry, or not-for-profit major specific internships. Opportunities in advertising, public relations, journalism, radio and television, museums and philanthropic outreach organizations. Program open to communication majors and minors who meet eligibility requirements.

CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics

This course is for students who wish to receive academic credit for a second or third internship. Must be a Communication major or minor who has completed CMN 394 or ISP250 and meets eligibility requirements. Must be taken concurrently with an internship. Topics include building and managing a communication career, effective networking, and leadership development.

Bachelor of Arts in Relational Communication

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Degree Programs ▢ Bachelor of Arts in Relational Communication

Liberal Studies Requirements

First Year Program
Chicago Quarter	LSP 110 or LSP 111
Focal Point	LSP 112
Writing	WRD 103* and WRD 104*
Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy	LSP 120 and LSP 121 (Note: See information below.)
Sophomore Year
Multiculturalism in the US	LSP 200
Junior Year
Experiential Learning	Required
Senior Year
Capstone	Required*
Learning Domains
Arts and Literature (AL)	2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)	2 Courses Required
Scientific Inquiry (SI)	3 Courses Required (Note : One must be a Lab.)

Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)	2 Courses Required
Religious Dimensions (RD)	2 Courses Required
Understanding the Past (UP)	2 Courses Required
Note:	* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Note: Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the students major and is cross-listed with a course within the students major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy :

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies □ Degree Programs □ Bachelor of Arts in Relational Communication □ Core Requirements

Core Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Relational Communication

The BA in Relational Communication provides students with a research-based understanding of communication in close relationships. The program, through a blend of theory and practice, helps students identify, analyze and meet the challenges of communicating effectively among individuals in both personal and professional relationships. Students will acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to initiate, develop, maintain, and competently dissolve relationships in an ethical manner.

The curriculum is both deep and broad, enabling students to gain practical expertise in their area of interest while gaining a working knowledge of related areas. Students learn to express themselves well in oral and written communications, to think critically about communication events all around them, to develop skills valuable in the workplace, and to communicate effectively in a diverse world.

The Communication Studies Full-Time Faculty

JACQUELINE TAYLOR, Ph.D.,
Professor and Dean

University of Texas, Austin

LEAH BRYANT, Ph.D.,

Associate Professor

University of Nebraska

TIM COLE, Ph.D.,

Associate Professor

University of California, Santa Barbara

SEAN HORAN, Ph.D.,

Assistant Professor,

West Virginia State University

JILL OBRIEN, Ph.D.,

Associate Professor

University of Illinois, Urbana

The Relational Communication Major

Relational Communication majors must complete the three core courses required of all College of Communication students. In addition, they must take one required course and choose seven classes from among the Relational Communication course offerings. Relational Communication majors must also take any two electives within the College of Communication. All Relational Communication majors must complete a total of 13 classes, or 52 credit hours.

Common Core

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

CMN 101, Introduction to Human Communication

CMN 102, Introduction to Mass Communication

CMN 103, Intercultural Communication.

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Relational Communication Major Requirement

RELC 211 Interpersonal Communication (Formerly CMN 211)

Electives In Relational Communication (7 courses)

ORGC 201 Business and Professional Communication (Formerly CMNS 201)

ORGC 212 Small Group Communication (Formerly CMNS 212)

RELC 290 Relational Communication Workshop

CMNS 291 Research Methods

RELC 311 Topics in Relational Communication (Formerly CMNS 311)

RELC 312 Evolution and Communication (Formerly CMNS 312)

RELC 313 Nonverbal Communication (Formerly CMNS 313)

RELC 314 Family Communication (Formerly CMNS 314)

CMNS 315 Health Communication

RELC 318 Close Relationships (Formerly CMNS 318)

RELC 319 The Dark Side of Personal Relationships (Formerly CMNS 319)

RELC 320 Deceptive Communication (Formerly CMNS 320)

RELC 329 Persuasion (Formerly CMNS 329)

INTC 330 Topics in Performance (Formerly CMNS 330)

RELC 340 Communication and Dating (Formerly CMNS 340)

ORGC 354 Employment Interviewing (Formerly CMNS 354)

ORGC 355 Conflict Management and Negotiation (Formerly CMNS 355)

INTC 361 Gender and Communication (Formerly CMNS 361)

RELC 392 Independent Study (Formerly CMNS 392)

RELC 393 Relational Communication Practicum

CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship

CMN 395 Communication Internship Topics

College of Communication Electives (2 open electives)

Students majoring in Relational Communication may take as many as two electives from any College of Communication offerings.

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship or CMN 395 Communication Internship Topics (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394, or CMN 395, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103), one required course (RELC 211) and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.
Latino Media and Communication Concentration

Students interested in pursuing a concentration in Latino Media and Communication may refer here for information about concentration requirements.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the bachelors degree in Communication Studies by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any courses offered by DePaul University.

Course Descriptions

CMN 101 Introduction to Human Communication

This core course is required of all majors in the College of Communication. The class provides an introduction to the field of relational, group, and organizational communication. Students become acquainted with the basic terms, concepts and theoretical perspectives used to examine communication in dyadic, group, and organizational contexts.

CMN 102 Introduction to Media Communication

This course offers students a broad overview of the mass media (print, film, video, recorded music, radio, television and the internet) with a particular focus on how these media impact our everyday lives. Students will develop critical frameworks for understanding how power operates across the media spheres of production, circulation, representation and reception. Attention is placed on how the social categories of race, class, gender, sexuality, ethnicity, age and nationality inform each of these media spheres. The course also considers how recent developments in digital technologies, media convergence and globalization have transformed our media culture.

CMN 103 Intercultural Communication

This course is required for all majors in the College of Communication. The class explores issues pertaining to communication and culture. Here, we consider the important role of context (social/political, historical, and interpersonal) in cultural interactions. Specifically, we examine the complex relationship between culture and communication from three conceptual perspectives: the social/psychological, the interpretive, and the critical.

RELC 211, Interpersonal Communication (Formerly CMNS 211)

An introduction to the factors that shape communication between two people. Topics include self-concept formation, perception, message formation, verbal and nonverbal communication, active listening, and defensiveness.

ORGC 201, Business and Professional Communication (Formerly CMNS 201)

Employers demand strong communication and presentation skills. In order to compete effectively in the job market, students need to acquire and practice the written and oral communication skills needed to interview successfully. Furthermore, as a professional you will not only be expected to be a confident speaker, but also to organize and prepare clear, concise and interesting presentations. You will also need to communicate effectively while working as the member of a team or in other group contexts. In developing the knowledge, competencies, and skills needed to communicate effectively in these and other contexts, this course will embrace opportunities for both critical thinking and applied problem solving.

ORGC 212, Small Group Communication (Formerly CMNS 212)

A survey of the variables operating in group interactions. Combines principles with practice through participation in small group experiences. Topics include group formation, group formats, organizational approaches, decision-making models, group observation and evaluation.

RELC 290, Communication Studies Workshop (Formerly CMNS 290)

This course allows students to sample a range of hands on, practical offerings in Relational Communication that can enhance their knowledge and expertise. Workshop topics can include Survey Design and Focus Groups, among others. Students may take a maximum of 4 credit hours of RELC 290 in the major, and a total of 8 credit hours. RELC 290 is a 2 cr. hour class.

CMNS 291, Research Methods

This course is an introduction to the study of communication through the observation and analysis of empirical (i.e. aspects of the observable world) data. It will stress how to form appropriate questions from the theories (or hunches, dreams etc.) and rigorously test these propositions (quantitatively and qualitatively) to see how well they correspond to the world outside ourselves. An added benefit of the course will be to show how to be a more informed judge of the claims of others. The format of the course is lecture/discussion.

RELC 311, Topics in Interpersonal/Relational Communication (Formerly CMNS 311)

Explores specialized topic within the field of interpersonal communication. Past topics have included: emotions & communication, gender & its relation to interaction, the "social construction" of interpersonal realities, etc.

RELC 312, Evolution and Communication (Formerly CMNS 312)

This seminar explores how communication, across a variety of topics, can be understood with respect to the theory of evolution. Specifically, this course examines how millions of years of human evolution influences how people interact in their personal and social relationships.

RELC 313, Nonverbal Communication (Formerly CMNS 313)

This course surveys various conceptual areas generally subsumed under the broad rubric of nonverbal communication. Topics include: physical appearances, gestures, face and eye behavior, vocalics, proxemics, touch, time, environmental contexts as well as application of nonverbal behaviors to specific interpersonal communication contexts.

RELC 314, Family Communication (Formerly CMNS 314)

This course surveys topics relevant to understanding communication phenomena in the setting of the family.

Topics include: family systems, patterns, meaning, themes, roles and types, family life cycles, stressors and conflict, changing family forms and contexts.

CMNS 315, Health Communication

This course overviews the theory and practice of communication in the health care setting. Topics include the dynamics of doctor-patient interaction and the cursory nature of health care campaigns.

RELC 318, Close Relationships (Formerly CMNS 318)

This course examines the role of communication in the development, maintenance, and deterioration of romantic attachments. Topics include attraction, intimacy and self-disclosure, attachment beliefs, jealousy, satisfaction, commitment, trust, betrayal, conflict, autonomy, interdependence, etc.

RELC 319, The Dark Side of Personal Relationships (Formerly CMNS 319)

This course explores the "dark side" of interpersonal communication by examining the growing literature on the troubling or problematic aspects of close relationships. Topics covered include relational dilemmas, relational control and dominance, hurtful messages, paradoxical communication, social predicaments, relational transgressions, privacy violations, physical abuse, verbal aggression, etc.

RELC 320, Deceptive Communication (Formerly CMNS 320)

Explores the use of deceptive communication in social and personal relationships from a range of theoretical perspectives including ethics, evolutionary biology, linguistics, social and developmental psychology, and jurisprudence.

RELC 329, Persuasion (Formerly CMNS 329)

Explores major theoretical assumptions of current persuasion research. Examines causes and effects of effective and ineffective persuasion. Analyzes persuasive skills and strategies for a variety of persuasion applications, e.g. political, interpersonal, intercultural, and advertising.

INTC 330, Topics in Performance (Formerly CMNS 330)

Advanced study in performance focusing on a specific genre each quarter such as: Poetry, Fiction, Nonfiction, Drama or Chamber Theater. Other possibilities include: performing autobiography; life performances; ritual, ceremony, and storytelling; and radio and television performances.

RELC 340, Communicating & Dating (Formerly CMNS 340)

The goal of this course is provide students with a research-based understanding of the role of communication within dating relationships. Accordingly, this course traces the life-cycle of a dating relationship. Specifically, this course begins by examining initial interactions that are potentially romantic and could turn into dating interactions. Next, the course focuses on how people engage in dating relationships and the factors that influence relationships. Finally, the course concludes with what happens after dating (i.e., long term commitment/marriage, relational termination, or the death of a partner).

ORGC 354, Employment Interviewing (Formerly CMNS 354)

Studies theory and practice of interviewing. Course focuses each term on a particular interview application (journalistic, employment, research, etc.) and examines strategies appropriate for interviewer and interviewee. Covers planning, conducting and evaluating interviews as well as relevant legislation.

ORGC 355, Conflict Management and Negotiation (Formerly CMNS 355)

Examines the theory and process of conflict in interpersonal and organizational contexts. Focuses upon the causes, types, and theories of conflicts as well as upon practical approaches to dispute resolution. Topics include: social-psychological as well as process perspectives of conflict; personal conflict style/s; conflict sources; destructive versus constructive interaction cycles; impression management; conflict escalation or diminishment; and resolution strategies.

INTC 361, Gender and Communication (Formerly CMNS 361)

A review of the differences in communication patterns between women and men. Topics covered include language and language usage differences, interaction patterns, gender social movements, and perceptions of the sexes generated through language and communication.

RELC 392, Independent Study (Formerly CMNS 392)

1-4 credit hours.

RELC 393, Relational Communication Practicum

Structured and supervised student participation in practical activities in relational contexts. Includes practical experience research, training, or consultative activities. Students may take a maximum of 2 credit hours in one quarter, 4 credit hours in the major, and 8 total credit hours.

CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship

Placement of students in business, industry, or not-for-profit major specific internships. Opportunities in advertising, public relations, journalism, radio and television, museums and philanthropic outreach organizations. Program open to communication majors and minors who meet eligibility requirements.

CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics

This course is for students who wish to receive academic credit for a second or third internship. Must be a Communication major or minor who has completed CMN 294 or ISP250 and meets eligibility requirements. Must be taken concurrently with an internship. Topics include building and managing a communication career, effective networking, and leadership development.

Bachelor of Arts in Organizational Communication

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▢ Degree Programs ▢ Bachelor of Arts in Organizational Communication

Liberal Studies Requirements

First Year Program
Chicago Quarter	LSP 110 or LSP 111
Focal Point	LSP 112
Writing	WRD 103* and WRD 104*
Quantitative Reasoning & Technological Literacy	LSP 120 and LSP 121 (Note: See information below.)
Sophomore Year
Multiculturalism in the US	LSP 200
Junior Year
Experiential Learning	Required
Senior Year
Capstone	Required*
Learning Domains
Arts and Literature (AL)	2 Courses Required
Philosophical Inquiry (PI)	2 Courses Required
Scientific Inquiry (SI)	3 Courses Required (Note : One must be a Lab.)
Self, Society and the Modern World (SSMW)	2 Courses Required
Religious Dimensions (RD)	2 Courses Required
Understanding the Past (UP)	2 Courses Required
Note:	* Students must earn a C- or better in this course.

Note: Courses offered in the student's primary major cannot be taken to fulfill LSP Domain requirements. If students double major, LSP Domain courses may double count for both LSP credit and the second major. Students who choose to take an experiential learning course offered by the major may count it either as a general elective or the JYEL requirement.

In meeting learning domain requirements, no more than one course that is outside the students major and is cross-listed with a course within the students major, can be applied to count for LSP domain credit. This policy does not apply to those who are pursuing a double major or earning BFA or BM degrees.

Quantitative Reasoning and Technological Literacy :

Readiness for LSP 120 is determined by the math placement test taken online after admission. Students may need to take developmental coursework prior to LSP 120. The LSP 120 requirement may be waived by credit already earned for advanced math coursework or by passing a dedicated proficiency exam. Students who complete both LSP 120 and LSP 121 take one less Learning Domain course. Students may not apply the course reduction to any Domain where only one course is required, and if taken within the SI Domain, the reduction cannot be applied to the SI Lab requirement.

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Degree Programs ▫ Bachelor of Arts in Organizational Communication ▫ Core Requirements

Core Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts in Organizational Communication

The BA in Organizational Communication explores effective and participatory communication across organizational contexts. Through a blend of theory and practice, students are encouraged to think, speak, and write clearly; to develop confidence and ability as ethical communicators; to view communication events from multiple perspectives; to understand the multicultural character of communication in contemporary workplaces and society; to analyze and evaluate variables operating in verbal transactions; to probe individual and group behaviors in order to understand self, others, and events; and to recognize the connections between organizational communication and other disciplines.

The curriculum is both deep and broad, enabling students to gain practical expertise in their area of interest while gaining a working knowledge of related areas. The curriculum focuses on ethical practice and the convergence of traditional and new media, preparing students for professional practice in an evolving marketplace. Students learn to express themselves well in oral and written communications, to think critically about communication events all around them, to develop skills valuable in the workplace, and to communicate effectively in a diverse world.

The Communication Studies Full-Time Faculty

JACQUELINE TAYLOR, Ph.D.,
Professor and Dean
University of Texas, Austin
DAVID BRENDERS, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
Purdue University

DONALD MARTIN, Ph.D.,
Professor & Associate Dean
University of Texas, Austin

ALEXANDRA MURPHY, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of South Florida

JILL OBRIEN, Ph.D.,
Associate Professor
University of Illinois, Urbana

WILLONA OLISON, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
Northwestern University
SUCHITRA SHENOY, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor
Purdue University

JC. BRUNO TEBOUL, Ph.D.,
Professor and Associate Dean
Ohio State University

KAY YOON, Ph.D.,
Assistant Professor

University of Illinois, Urbana

ELIZABETH ZOUFAL, M.A.
Instructor - Debate Coach
University of Illinois, Urbana

The Organizational Communication Major

Organizational Communication majors must complete the three core courses required of all College of Communication students. Students are also required to take two courses specific to this degree program. In addition, students must take six classes from among the electives listed below. Organizational Communication students must also take any two electives within the College of Communication. All Organizational Communication majors must complete a total of 13 classes, or 52 credit hours.

Common Core

Three core courses are required of all College of Communication students:

CMN 101, Introduction to Human Communication
CMN 102, Introduction to Mass Communication
CMN 103, Intercultural Communication

Students are encouraged to complete all three prior to taking additional coursework in the major.

Required courses

All Organizational Communication majors are required to take the following courses in addition to the core courses listed above:

ORGC 251, Organizational Communication (Formerly CMNS 251)
ORGC 201, Business and Professional Communication (Formerly CMNS 201) OR INTC 220 Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 220)

Organizational Communication Electives

Organizational Communication majors must take an additional six courses from the list of offerings below.

INTC 205, Communication, Culture and Community (Formerly CMNS 205)
ORGC 212, Small Group Communication (Formerly CMNS 212)
PRAD 334, Ethics in Public Relations and Advertising
PRAD 255, Principles of Public Relations
ORGC 290, Organizational Communication Workshop
CMNS 291, Research Methods
CMNS 306, Topics in Presentation
CMNS 315, Health Communication
ORGC 316, Communication and Group Decision making (Formerly CMNS 316)
ORGC 317, Topics in Group Communication (Formerly CMNS 317)
INTC 322, Advanced Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 322)
INTC 331, Communication Fieldwork (Formerly CMNS 331)
CMNS 332, Topics in Communication Methodology
ORGC 332 Topics in Organizational Communication Methodology
ORGC 350, Communication and Socialization to work (Formerly CMNS 350)
ORGC 352, Communication and Corporate Culture (Formerly CMNS 352)
ORGC 353, Communication and Organizational Change (Formerly CMNS 353)
ORGC 354, Employment Interviewing (Formerly CMNS 354)
ORGC 355, Conflict Management and Negotiation (Formerly CMNS 355)
ORGC 356, Communication and Consulting (Formerly CMNS 356)
ORGC 357, Topics in Organizational Communication (Formerly CMNS 357)
ORGC 358, Leadership and Team building (Formerly CMNS 358)
CMNS 360, Relational, Group And Organizational Theory
INTC 361, Gender and Communication (Formerly CMNS 361)
MCS 366, Communication, Technology, and Society (Formerly CMNS 366)
ORGC 392 Independent Study
ORGC 393 Organizational Communication Practicum
INTC 395 Debate Practicum
CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship
CMN 395, Communication Internship Topics

College of Communication Electives

Organizational Communication majors may choose to take any two College of Communication courses as

College of Communication electives .

Internship Credit

Students in the major may take CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship or CMN 395 Communication Internship Topics (when placement relates to the major) for credit. In order to take CMN 394, or CMN 395, students must have completed the three communication core courses (CMN 101, CMN 102, CMN 103), two required courses (ORGC 251; ORGC 201 or INTC 220) and have fulfilled internship program eligibility requirements.

Unrestricted Electives

Students complete the bachelors degree in Organizational Communication by taking an additional 56 quarter hours selected from any courses offered by DePaul University.

Latino Media and Communication Concentration

Students interested in pursuing a concentration in Latino Media and Communication may refer here for information about concentration requirements.

Course Descriptions

CMN 101 Introduction to Human Communication

This core course is required of all majors in the College of Communication. The class provides an introduction to the field of relational, group, and organizational communication. Students become acquainted with the basic terms, concepts and theoretical perspectives used to examine communication in dyadic, group, and organizational contexts.

CMN 102 Introduction to Media Communication

This course offers students a broad overview of the mass media (print, film, video, recorded music, radio, television and the internet) with a particular focus on how these media impact our everyday lives. Students will develop critical frameworks for understanding how power operates across the media spheres of production, circulation, representation and reception. Attention is placed on how the social categories of race, class, gender, sexuality, ethnicity, age and nationality inform each of these media spheres. The course also considers how recent developments in digital technologies, media convergence and globalization have transformed our media culture.

CMN 103 Intercultural Communication

This course is required is required for all majors in the College of Communication. The class explores issues pertaining to communication and culture. Here, we consider the important role of context (social/political, historical, and interpersonal) in cultural interactions. Specifically, we examine the complex relationship between culture and communication from three conceptual perspectives: the social/psychological, the interpretive, and the critical.

ORGC 201 Business and Professional Communication (Formerly CMNS 201)

Employers demand strong communication and presentation skills. In order to compete effectively in the job market, students need to acquire and practice the written and oral communication skills needed to interview successfully. Furthermore, as a professional you will not only be expected to be a confident speaker, but also to organize and prepare clear, concise and interesting presentations. You will also need to communicate effectively while working as the member of a team or in other group contexts. In developing the knowledge, competencies and skills needed to communicate effectively in these and other contexts, this course will embrace opportunities for both critical thinking and applied problem solving.

INTC 205, Communication, Culture, and Community (Formerly CMNS 205)

Examines the relationships among culture, communication, institutions, and public and private life. Students explore the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through service in community organizations. The course also fulfills the junior year experiential learning requirement through community based service learning.

ORGC 212, Small Group Communication (Formerly CMNS 212)

A survey of the variables operating in group interactions. Combines principles with practice through participation in small group experiences. Topics include group formation, group formats, organizational approaches, decision-making models, group observation and evaluation.

PRAD 255, Principles of Public Relations

This introduction to public relations traces the development of public relations industries and practices. Students are introduced to theories and principles of public relations, along with the roles and responsibilities of professionals working in public relations and related disciplines. Students also examine industry regulations, societal implications, and strategic planning processes associated with public relations.

PRAD 334, Ethics in Public Relations and Advertising

This course explores ethical issues of public relations and advertising from both theoretical and practical perspectives. Students learn the professional and social responsibilities of Public Relations and Advertising professionals and prevailing norms in public relations, advertising, and related disciplines. Prerequisite(s): PRAD 244 or PRAD 255.

INTC 220, Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 220)

Introduction to the skills required in a variety of public speaking settings. Includes units on delivery, language, defining speech purposes and content, finding supporting material, organization, and audience analysis. Students will be required to present speeches. Background in basic writing and library skills is necessary.

ORGC 251, Organizational Communication (Formerly CMNS 251)

This course focuses on the role of communication in organizational life. Attention will be devoted to exploring how communication simultaneously shapes and is shaped by organizations. Topics include conflict and mediation, stress and social support, the supervisor-subordinate relationships, workplace diversity, organizational consultation and new communication technologies in organizations.

ORGC 290 Organizational Communication Workshop

This course allows students to sample a range of hands on, practical offerings Communication Studies that can enhance their knowledge and expertise. Workshop topics can include Survey Design and Focus Groups, among others. Students may take a maximum of 4 credit hours of CMNS 290 in the major, and a total of 8 credit hours. CMNS 290 is a 2 cr. hour class.

CMNS 291, Research Methods

This course is an introduction to the study of communication through the observation and analysis of empirical (i.e. aspects of the observable world) data. It will stress how to form appropriate questions from the theories (or hunches, dreams etc.) and rigorously test these propositions (quantitatively and qualitatively) to see how well they correspond to the world outside ourselves. An added benefit of the course will be to show how to be a more informed judge of the claims of others. The format of the course is lecture/discussion.

CMNS 306, Topics in Presentation

Courses offer advanced analysis of presentational forms. Students will enact presentational theories in relational, small group, or public communication contexts.

CMNS 315, Health Communication

This course overviews the theory and practice of communication in the health care setting. Topics include the dynamics of doctor-patient interaction and the cursory nature of health care campaigns.

ORGC 316, Communication and Group Decision-Making (Formerly CMNS 316)

Advanced undergraduate course in small group communication. Students develop skills and abilities in identifying various factors that contribute to the success and failure of group decision-making in organizational contexts. Class sessions will focus on theories, research, and practices in group processes, and their applications to issues in real life.

ORGC 317, Topics in Group Communication (Formerly CMNS 317)

Examines selected topics in group communication processes. Topics may include group creativity, communicating in virtual teams, conflict in groups, and group facilitation.

INTC 322, Advanced Public Speaking (Formerly CMNS 322)

Analyzes theories and develops skills required in persuasive speaking situations. This course is an extension of the public speaking class (CMN 220) and explores in greater detail than the first course the analysis of audiences, sources of resistance to persuasion, and appropriate logical and psychological strategies for persuasive speeches.

INTC 331, Communication Fieldwork (Formerly CMNS 331)

Provides students with experience conducting qualitative research, including data collection techniques, data coding and analysis, as well as interpretation of data and writing ethnographic reports. In addition to providing practical hands-on training in ethnographic research, this course explores the theory, ethics, and politics behind various qualitative research methodologies.

ORGC 332, Topics in Organizational Communication Methodology

Courses explore a range of qualitative and quantitative research strategies. Topics may include more specialized modes of gathering and assessing data, using new data technologies and software programs, and conducting communication studies.

ORGC 350, Communication and Socialization to Work (Formerly CMNS 350)

Examines how human beings move through the world of work, paying particular attention to the role communication plays in this process. Influences that help shape people's perceptions of work during youth and adolescence are reviewed, as are those that help individuals develop expectations about life in particular organizations prior to entry. In addition, the class focuses on new hire adjustment, the processes by which "rookies" gradually become "veterans" in the workplace, and covers voluntary and involuntary retirement.

ORGC 352, Communication and Corporate Culture (Formerly CMNS 352)

Focuses on the communicative implications of such cultural elements as values, heroes, rites, rituals, symbolism and storytelling. Analyzes and presents ways of adapting to the diverse components of a culture.

ORGC 353, Communication and Organizational Change (Formerly CMNS 353)

Explores the impact of change on the day to day work experience of organizational members. How culture, management philosophy and individual performances are influenced by change. Political, symbolic interactional, and human resource perspectives are explored.

ORGC 354, Employment Interviewing (Formerly CMNS 354)

Studies theory and practice of interviewing. Course focuses each term on a particular interview application (journalistic, employment, research, etc.) and examines strategies appropriate for interviewer and interviewee. Covers planning, conducting and evaluating interviews as well as relevant legislation.

ORGC 355, Conflict Management and Negotiation (Formerly CMNS 355)

Examines the theory and process of conflict in interpersonal and organizational contexts. Focuses upon the causes, types, and theories of conflicts as well as upon practical approaches to dispute resolution. Topics include: social-psychological as well as process perspectives of conflict; personal conflict style/s; conflict sources; destructive versus constructive interaction cycles; impression management; conflict escalation or diminishment; and resolution strategies.

ORGC 356, Communication Consulting (Formerly CMNS 356)

Examines how to partner with a client to facilitate constructive organizational change and behavioral growth in the workplace. Focuses on contemporary consulting through case studies. Previous courses in organizational, small group, or interpersonal communication are suggested.

ORGC 357, Topics in Organizational Communication (Formerly CMNS 357)

Topics covered in this course might include: communication and customer service, assessment and intervention in organizations, comparative management, democratic participation in organizations, gender in the workplace, etc.

ORGC 358, Leadership and Team Building (Formerly CMNS 358)

This course will introduce the student to the theory and practice of self-managed work teams. This approach to group dynamics has many short term and long term benefits, such as solving problems across organizational boundaries or in changing the nature of work and supervision itself.

CMNS 360, Relational, Group, and Organizational Theory

This course surveys relevant theoretical developments in the field of communication. While exploring the major theoretical paradigms that inform and guide the study of human communication, students receive insight into the significance and meaning of their own day-to-day communication activities and discover how theories provide complementary and viable explanations for analyzing as well as assessing the impact of communication in relational, group and organizational contexts.

INTC 361, Gender and Communication (Formerly CMNS 361)

A review of the differences in communication patterns between women and men. Topics covered include language and language usage differences, interaction patterns, gender social movements, and perceptions of the sexes generated through language and communication.

MCS 366, Communication, Technology and Society

Survey of a variety of contemporary and historical issues related to the introduction and diffusion of communication technologies in society. Especially examines how new technologies, particularly the Internet, are transforming the communication landscape. Emphasis on issues of intellectual property, surveillance, privacy, regulation, message construction, and access will be central to this course.

ORGC 392, Independent Study (Formerly CMNS 392)

1-4 credit hours.

ORGC 393, Organizational Communication Practicum (Formerly CMNS 393)

Structured and supervised student participation in practical activities in group and organizational contexts. Includes practical experience in research, training, or consultative activities. Students may take a maximum of 2 credit hours in one quarter, 4 credit hours in the major, and 8 total credit hours.

INTC 395, Debate Practicum (Formerly CMNS 395)

This practicum centers on developing students' skills in debate and public discourse. Participation in forensic activities outside of the class (tournaments, public debates, etc.) is an expectation. This course can be taken a total of 6 times. 8 credit hours can count towards the CMNS major.

CMN 394, Advanced Communication Internship

Placement of students in business, industry, or not-for-profit major specific internships. Opportunities in advertising, public relations, journalism, radio and television, museums and philanthropic outreach organizations. Program open to communication majors and minors who meet eligibility requirements.

CMN 395, Communication Internship Special Topics

This course is for students who wish to receive academic credit for a second or third internship. Must be a Communication major or minor who has completed CMN 394 or ISP250 and meets eligibility requirements. Must be taken concurrently with an internship. Topics include building and managing a communication career, effective networking, and leadership development.

Concentrations

Latino Media and Communication

College of Communication - Undergraduate Studies ▫ Concentrations ▫ Latino Media and Communication

Latino Media and Communication

Concentration Goals:

The program educates students to think critically about all aspects of media and communication, with a particular focus on Latino media and Latino communities. Coursework provides students with the applied skills necessary to create communication strategies which effectively reach the Latino segment of the population, based on an understanding of Latino cultures in the US and grounded in an understanding of its cultural, economic and sociological aspects.

Learning Goals.

Students who complete the concentration will:

- Develop an understanding of the heterogeneous and rapidly changing Latino communities locally, nationally, and globally.
- Ground their knowledge of intercultural studies within a more extensive and concrete knowledge of a particular (even though diverse), rapidly growing, and increasingly important population within the US Latino communities.
- Increase their cross-cultural competence (understanding and ability to dialogue across difference, develop cultural sensitivity and awareness) with Latino communities.
- Develop insights into the needs and motivations of Latino populations in the workplace, in community situations, and other sites of engagement, and develop communications tools and strategies to address those needs and motivations.
- Enhance their capacity to communicate with and learn from Latino populations in the workplace, in community situations, and other sites of engagement.
- Recognize the impact of the movement of Latinos across the globe and to develop the skills to critically consume and produce media, public relations, and advertisement representations that communicate to and about Latino communities.
- Both engage and demonstrate their interest in Latino Studies within and across diverse areas of knowledge production in the Communication field.

The Curriculum.

One required core course. Students may choose from EITHER of the following to meet the core course requirement:

LST 202 Multiculturalism in the United States: The Construction of Latino Communities

An introductory course that highlights the experiences of the major Latino groups in the United States. It brings together insight from history, politics, sociology, anthropology, literature, film and art to explore the social and cultural experiences of the Latino communities. The course deals with issues of immigration, relationships to home countries, border cultures, identity, and strategies of employment.

INTC 335 (formerly CMNS 335) Latino Communication, Culture, & Community

Examines the relationships among Latino culture, communication, institutions, and public and private life. Students explore the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through service in Latino community organizations. The course also fulfills the junior year experiential learning requirement through community based service learning.

Any additional three courses from:

LST 202 Multiculturalism in the United States: The Construction of Latino Communities

An introductory course that highlights the experiences of the major Latino groups in the United States. It brings together insight from history, politics, sociology, anthropology, literature, film and art to explore the social and cultural experiences of the Latino communities. The course deals with issues of immigration, relationships to home countries, border cultures, identity, and strategies of employment.

PSY 220 Latina/o Psychology

The purpose of this course is to examine the psychological research literature on the mental health and well being of Latina/o populations in the United States. A number of relevant topics will be examined, including the current state of Latinas/os in psychology, cultural characteristics and values, immigration, acculturation, ethnic identity, stereotypes and discrimination, health, and education. The goal of this course is for students to be better equipped in understanding the factors that influence the psychology of the Latina/o population.

INTC 335 (formerly CMNS 335) Latino Communication, Culture, & Community

Examines the relationships among Latino culture, communication, institutions, and public and private life. Students explore the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through service in Latino community organizations. The course also fulfills the junior year experiential learning requirement through community based service learning.

INTC 308 (formerly CMNS 308) Topics in Cultural Discourse: Photography and Culture (cross-listed Intercultural Communication: (for designated Latino-focused topics) with MCS 353, Topics in Media Studies: Photography and Culture)

Examines For example ORIGINS: This course examines some of the foundations of Latino culture in both Mexico City and Chicago through a two one-week immersion experiences in each city. Students create photographic projects while examining the history, cultural discourses, rituals, and other aspects of culture in the Latino communities in both countries. The The immersion weeks each involve 5 day-long classes with lectures and field trips. This is an exchange program with Universidad Panamericana in Mexico City.

An additional topic is The Puerto Rican Nation: A Transnational Perspective: A Service Learning Travel Course to Puerto Rico. This service learning travel course is a three-week study abroad summer session in Puerto Rico. It combines two courses in Modern Languages and Latin American and Latino Studies where students will explore transnational connections that create a nation transcending national borders and binding the reality of Puerto Ricans on the island with those living in diaspora in Chicago and elsewhere.

JOUR 377 Journalism Topics (for designated Latino-focused topics)

This course allows students to sample a range of topical offerings in journalism that have included press law and ethics, arts and entertainment reporting, business and finance reporting, science and technology reporting, health and medicine reporting, tabloid journalism, war reporting, and reporting religion and moral issues. Topics for this concentration might include: Covering the Latino Community in Chicago, Covering the Immigration Debate, Latino Popular Culture (Prereq: JOUR 275).

LST 300 Topics in Latin American Studies: Documentary in the Americas

This course explores the various forms and functions of documentary in Latin American countries and created by Latin American documentary filmmakers and videomakers.

MCS 350 Topics in Global Cinema: Latin American Cinemas

This course is designed as a critical study of global filmmakers and the issues surrounding cinema and its transnational circulation. The class will examine specific aspects of the growth and evolution of cinema and look at points of contact between different cultural discourses, national cinematic styles, genres, and reception. Artistic, social, political, and industrial issues will be examined to provide different models of cinematic creation and consumption. Lab for film viewing required.

MCS 353 Topics in Media Studies (cross-listed with CMNS 308 Topics in Intercultural Communication: Topic - Photography and Culture ORIGINS)

This course examines some of the foundations of Latino culture in Mexico City, Guadalajara Mexico and Chicago through two one-week immersion experiences in both countries. Students create photographic projects while examining the history, cultural discourse, economics, cultural rituals and other aspects of culture in the Latino communities in both countries.

MCS 375 Latino/a Television and Media

Drawing Drawing from Latin American and U.S. television studies, this course explores the political, industrial and cultural dynamics that shape televisual representations in Latin American television and/or Spanish language Television in the US. More specifically, Spanish-language television and media will be examined from interdisciplinary frameworks, which include the cultural analysis of televisual modes, national and international regulations of media production and distribution, histories of production, and ethnographies of viewing.

MCS 376 Latin American Cinema

This course examines the production, distribution and impact of cinema in the Latin American context. Transnational relations with other industries, such as Hollywood and the European film context will be considered. We will investigate how social, economic and political forces have shaped or are presently influencing and transforming national cinemas. Questions of identity and cultural difference, particularly in relation to immigration, diasporas, transnationalism, youth culture, class, gender, sexuality, race and ethnicity are central to the discussions. We will consider the diversity of styles and topics that are now redefining the cinema of the region.

PRAD 361 Account Planning and Consumer Insights for Latino Markets

This course encompasses both the similarities and differences of Latino consumers in the U.S. and explores the differences among the unique Latino cultures, their media habits and the effectiveness of using various promotional tools to affect their consumer behavior. The account planner represents the voice of the consumer in the advertising process. This course will examine the role of account planning and its relationship within advertising agencies to creative development. Special emphasis will be placed on the qualitative and ethnographic research techniques used by planners, and the role that curiosity and empathy play in understanding different Latino consumer audiences to gain insight about these groups' motivations and behaviors. Prerequisite: PRAD 244.

PRAD 362 Latino Strategic Communication Campaigns (formerly PRAD 392)

Focuses on how to effectively target messages to Latino populations in ways that move beyond stereotypic and simplistic models of Latino audiences. Emphasis on developing culturally relevant integrated campaigns that incorporate appreciation of the diversity of Latino audiences. Students learn creative strategies for dialoguing with Latino consumers, customers, stakeholders, and influencers to develop public relations and advertising messaging in both the commercial and non-profit sector. Distinctive characteristics of the Latino population are considered, along with the rich diversity of these communities. Consideration given to effective use of new media and strategic decisions about communicating in English versus Spanish. Successful completion of PRAD 244 or 255; PRAD 256; and CMNS/PRAD 291 is required prior to entrance to any PRAD campaigns course.

PRAD 392 Special Topics in Advertising

This course allows students to sample a range of topical offerings in advertising that have included Media Planning, Advertising in the Digital Age, Ad Copywriting, Advanced Advertising Campaigns, Consumer Promotions, and Psychology of Advertising. Topics for this concentration might include: Media Planning for Latino Markets, Ad Copywriting for Latino Markets, The Advertising Industry in Latin America. Prerequisite: PRAD 244

PRAD 391 Special Topics in Public Relations

This course allows students to sample a range of topical offerings in public relations that have included International Communication and PR, Event Planning, and Study Abroad. In addition to these topics, new topics for this concentration might include Media Relations in Latin America, The Use of Social Media Among Latinos, Marketing PR Strategies for Latino Markets, and other Latino relevant topics. Prerequisite: PRAD 244 or PRAD 255.

MKT 340 Marketing across Cultures Latin Markets

The course is designed to challenge students to think critically about culture and international marketing, with an emphasis and perspective on Latin America. The course is structured to examine cross-cultural and intercultural approaches that intertwine with the international business environment and the impact that both have on the marketing of goods and services.

MKT 341 Integrated Marketing Communication: Multicultural Markets

An overview of the principles of integrated marketing communications and how these are applied to the growing multicultural market in the US. The course will focus on the application of integrating marketing principles to this increasingly complex and fragmented market. The course includes an overview of the multicultural markets, media environment, and the tools available for designing integrated marketing communications programs, including promotions. The course structure will include statistical reports, case studies, exercises, experiences and guest lectures. Real-life cases will be studied in the class with students delivering a mini-advertising/IMC plan at the end of the course.

CMN 394 Advanced Communication Internship (for credit in this concentration, the internships must focus on Latino media and communication)

Placement of students in business, industry, or not-for-profit major specific internships. Opportunities in advertising, public relations, journalism, radio and television, museums and philanthropic outreach organizations. Program open to communication majors and minors who meet eligibility requirements.

CMN 395 Communication Internship Special Topics (for credit in this concentration, the internships must focus on Latino media and communication)

This course is for students who wish to receive academic credit for a second or third internship. Must be a Communication major or minor who has completed CMN 394 or ISP250 and meets eligibility requirements. Must be taken concurrently with an internship. Topics include building and managing a communication career, effective networking, and leadership development.

SPN 393: Latino Media Literacy

This class explores the role and impact of the media in the Latino community and how Latinos are represented as well as how they view themselves. It explores Latino communities participation as creators and consumers of popular and media cultures. It examines media organization and their role in shaping popular cultures. This is both an upper level undergraduate and graduate level, inter-disciplinary course in Spanish that draws on bilingual readings. Students can also explore these issues through service learning with community partners and by doing a minimum of 25 hours service can receive credit for the Junior Year Experimental Learning domain.

SPN 198, 298, 398 Foreign Language

CSS 201 Perspectives on Community Service

CSS 390 Special Topics in Community Service Studies (cross-listed with LST 300 Special Topics: Transnational Communities: Puerto Rico/ABD Fall Quarter)

The post-trip Fall Quarter course will focus on Puerto Rican nationalism, culture, media and politics in Chicago and will include a service- learning component. Students will be guided through critical analysis of their experiences in Puerto Rico in order to enhance their service learning experiences. They will complete a final project developed in conjunction with one of the cultural, academic, or business sites in the community and will be challenged to link these projects to the knowledge they acquired in Puerto Rico.